FEDERAL CHURCH COUNCIL TO BACK OUT OF DRY ROW

Executive Board Decides to Start No Activity, but Will Co-operate With Other Agencies.

NOT EXPEDIENT, FIELD WELL FILLED

Recommendation for Continued Investigation of Prohibition Referred to Committee.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 11.—The Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches today decided it does not consider it expedient for the council to enter the field of temperance and prohibition at this time. The decision came in the adoption of a resolution culminating one phase of the prohibition discussion which has occupied a considerable portion of the three-day session here.

The resolution pointed out that much of the prohibition and temperance work of the churches that are members of the council is now being taken care of by individual church boards, commissions and other agencies, referring to the Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U.

"It is not expedient," the resolution stated, "for the Federal Council of Churches to enter at this time a field of activity already occupied by these agencies, except as may be determined by the administrative committee."

Active Co-operation.

The resolution also pledged the council to "active co-operation" with all such agencies.

The recommendation of Dr. Charles Stelzle of New York yesterday, urging continued and thorough study of the entire prohibition question was referred to the administrative committee of the Council and to other agencies engaged in prohibition work.

A resolution presented by Bishop James Cannon of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of Washington, calling for compulsory religious education and optional religious education in public schools, both in the grades and in the universities, brought opposition from Bishop Herman Page of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Detroit, and others. The time is not propitious, Bishop Page said, for such action.

The committee, after making several changes in the resolution including substitution of "required" for "compulsory," referred it to a committee for study.

Dr. Stelzle, formerly of St. Louis, known to the ministers assembled as a social worker, and who has been active in the prohibition movement for a score of years, asserted that education and not legislation was the main need of the prohibition situation today.

Not a Failure.

"Prohibition, like Christianity, is not a failure," he said, "because it has never been really tried. But prohibition, like Christianity, cannot be made operative merely through law enforcement. It must depend principally on the fact of conscience and law observance requires education of conscience. It cannot be forced upon a nation."

Regarding the acceptance of prohibition in this country, the speaker asserted: "There can be no question regarding its attitude. The workingmen throughout the United States toward prohibition. There has been a growing feeling of resentment against what is presumed to be a summary legislation, which has not only denied them what they believed to be their natural rights, but which has had practically no effect on the rich of the country, who may secure as much liquor of every kind as they desire."

Dr. Stelzle told his audience that a person was not necessarily against prohibition because he wanted to know all the facts about the "possibility of its enforcement and observance" or because he wanted an honest consideration of what constitutes intoxicating liquor.

Social Function of Saloon.

Although condemning the saloon, Dr. Stelzle said that it served a useful purpose in the social and economic life of the poor people of cities and that nothing had been provided as a substitute.

Discussing the power in which prohibition could be obtained, the speaker said the natural order was political, educational and legislative. He said the emotional appeal had been made by the Women's Christian Temperance Union many years and that some education on Page 3, Column 3

IRISH BOUNDARY DISPUTE REACHES FINAL SETTLEMENT

Old Line Dividing North From South Remains Intact Under Terms Ratified By Three Parliaments.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Irish boundary question, which long has been an irritation to the people of Ireland and to the British Government, finally has been settled under the agreement reached in London a short time ago, by which the old line dividing North and South Ireland remains intact and the Irish Free State is allowed to pay to Great Britain a large sum of money to aid in meeting Great Britain's war debts.

The Parliaments of Great Britain, the Free State and Ulster have adopted the agreement, and King George, on behalf of Great Britain, has given the measure the royal assent. Ulster previously had ratified it, and last night in Dublin the Irish Free State gave its approval by a vote of 71 to 20, after four days of debate, some of it acrimonious.

At the final session of the Daily President Cosgrave contended that the Government, for the first time, had secured the good will of Northern Ireland. It had done the best it could to settle the disturbing question in an amicable manner.

Eamonn de Valera, leader of the republicans, remains unreconciled. Likewise, the republican deputies of the Dail have expressed unalterable opposition to what they consider the partition of Ireland. De Valera at a public meeting in Dublin said republicans might have to bow their heads for a time to enforced partition by a foreign power, but their consent to this never would be given. The right to win back the territory remained unimpaired for those to whom the future would bring the opportunity, he declared.

Sir James Makes Appeal to Forget and Forgive, Bury the Past.

JEFFERSON, Dec. 11.—An appeal to forget and forgive and bury the past was made by Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, in a speech here last night. He also took occasion to declare that foundation was utterly lacking for the charges, made from time to time, about the manner in which Catholics were treated by the Ulster Protestants.

"I do wish," he said, "to assure the Catholics inside our area that so far as we are concerned—I speak not only for my colleagues but for every man in Ulster—there is no Roman Catholic disability in Ulster today."

He said he rejoiced at the Irish boundary settlement not only for its own sake but because the signs of the times were favorable to the removal of the customs barrier between North and South Ireland.

EX-SLAVE, MOTHER OF SIX NOTED SONS, DIES

Georgia Negro, Uneducated, Denied Self That Children Might Have Schooling.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 11.—Camilla Wilman Hubert, Negro, former slave and mother of a remarkable family, is dead here. Six of her seven sons hold high positions of service in various parts of the country, and her five daughters are married men holding similar places.

"Born in slavery, she and her husband had little opportunity to acquire any education for themselves, but through self-denial, they were able to rear and educate a large family," one of her sons said.

The seven sons and their positions are: Zeno P. Hubert, president of Jackson College, Jackson, Miss.; B. F. Hubert, director of Agriculture, Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala.; John W. Hubert, principal, Negro High School, Savannah, Ga.; J. H. Hubert, executive secretary, Urban League, New York City; Moses Hubert, Farm Demonstration Agent, Hancock County, Ga.; G. J. Hubert, pastor of two Atlanta churches and operator of a 600-acre farm. Theodore Hubert, senior at Morehouse College, Atlanta; Zack Hubert, her husband, also survives. The family was reared on a large farm in Hancock County, Ga.

COVETED HONORS ON WAY AS OPERA STAR KILLS SELF

Jurjewskaya, Russian Singer in Berlin, Feared She Had Failed to Please New York Maestro.

HIS OFFER ARRIVED TEN DAYS TOO LATE

She Had Taken Drug, Slashed Self With Razor, and Leaped From Cliff Into Mountain Torrent.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Dec. 11.—Had a certain letter from New York arrived here 10 days ago instead of only last night, the young Russian prima donna, Zinaida Jurjewskaya, who leaped to her death last week from the "Devil's Bridge" at Andermatt, Switzerland, probably would be alive and happy today, according to her lawyer, Dr. Jaffe, who is in possession of the missive.

The letter, which was a contract to appear in New York City, an opportunity for which she yearned.

Jurjewskaya was of an extremely nervous temperament. Dr. Jaffe said, and this condition was aggravated by excessive study, born of an insatiable ambition to scale the heights of her chosen art.

"Jurjewskaya's depressed spirits were due chiefly to fear that her artistic offering might not be equal to the highest standards," the lawyer said. "A New York maestro visited her during his recent trip and told her she would hear from him as soon as possible after his return to America. When the weeks passed without the coveted offer, she feared that she had failed to make the grade."

Andermatt dispatches say the search for the body must be given up for the present because of the swollen state of the river and the consequent danger to the searching parties.

WASHINGTON U. SHOWS HOW TO ABATE SMOKE

Comparatively Simple Device Eliminates the Pall From Power House Stack.

Washington University has furnished an object lesson in smoke elimination, which is of special interest in view of the renewed discussion of the smoke evil here.

The university recently put a new power plant in operation. The authorities were careful to see that the towering smokestack designed in architectural harmony with the campus buildings, but it developed that the new equipment in the powerhouse was creating an excessive amount of smoke. This resulted in many complaints from residents of the vicinity, whose homes were blackened by the outpour.

"We were as much concerned about this nuisance as anyone," said E. L. Oke, professor of mechanical engineering, who keeps in touch with the institution's mechanical problems, and who formerly was a member of the Engineers' Advisory Board in city smoke elimination work. "We felt the university should set an example to the rest of the community."

"We found it necessary, therefore, to install a simple device to cut out the smoke from the power house. We had thought when the new plant was built that this wouldn't be necessary. It is not a novel device, but we are following the plan of forcing the air in under pressure, where as steam jets are used for this purpose ordinarily."

"This is an object lesson in smoke elimination. Every power plant has to be studied individually to abate the smoke nuisance. You cannot find one method to fit all plants. We believe we have accomplished our purpose at the university with the new device."

Ducts were installed in one of the three boilers at the university to carry air into six 2½-inch perforated pipes over the firebox. A fan forces air through this system. The cost was about $200. Operation with this began yesterday and it was noticed at once that only a thin, harmless haze was emitted from the smokestack instead of the former black cloud. Similar equipment is being installed on the other boilers.

Buddhist Mysticism Background of Story

Copyright 1925 by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co., New York
BERLIN, Dec. 11.—The disappearance of Zinaida Jurjewskaya, Berlin soprano, which her friends and family believed was a staged affair, has turned out to be the tragedy indicated by the traces she left behind. The police are now satisfied that Mme. Jurjewskaya did and her life, slashing her wrists with a razor, then walking to the mountain torrent near the Swiss village of Andermatt and hurling herself into the water. The body has not been discovered.

The Swiss and German police are in agreement that suicide is the only explanation of the singer's disappearance.

The story is set against a background of Buddhist mysticism. It is the story of an acknowledged artist who herself doubted the ability which others conceded, the story, too, of an unhappy married life with an aimless Russian officer.

Background of Mysticism.

Mme. Jurjewskaya arranged with her husband for the receipt of a fake telegram purporting to come from her mother in Estonia and demanding her presence at the mother's bedside. The message procured leave of absence from the State Opera here. Her husband accompanied her to the train for Switzerland—she had no intention of seeing her mother. ## 50 STRIKERS, DAUGHTERS AND WIVES FINED FOR CONTEMPT

By the Associated Press.
FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 11.—The cases of 50 striking miners and their wives and daughters, adjudged in contempt of court for violating an injunction prohibiting picketing at the New England mine of the Consolidation Coal Co., have been settled.

Judge W. S. Meredith, in Circuit Court, pronounced final judgment when he placed penalties ranging from 10 days in jail, with a fine of $50, to a fine of $1. The women were fined $1 and costs.

JOHN D.'S GRANDSON WORKING HIS WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

Wins Scholarship at Yale Usually Given Poor Student—Employed as Phone Operator.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—How a grandson of John D. Rockefeller, one of the world's richest men, is working his way through Yale University, winning a scholarship intended for studious sons of the poor, came to light here today with announcement from the university of the winner of the James J. Hogan scholarship, which this year went to John R. Prentice, a sophomore. He is the son of R. Parmelee Prentice of New York and the former Miss Alta Rockefeller, daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

Although a scion of one of America's wealthiest families, Prentice expects to continue working his way through college and will take the award. The wealthy youth, refusing to accept the easier path usually chosen by sons of the rich, chose to Yale last year and began his studies, paying his way by employment here. His scholarship average of 92 brought him distinctive honor.

At the New Haven Hospital, where Prentice now works as a night telephone operator, James Hogan, once a famed Eli football captain, died in 1910. Hogan was loved by his classmates. So when he died, members of the fraternity Delta Kappa Epsilon established a fund of $5000 in his memory, the income to go annually to an industrious student.

STATE DRIVE ON INCOME TAX DODGERS NETS $307,530

Delinquencies Made up in St. Louis Total $238,800; Collections Now $3,587,249.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 11.—The campaign conducted by the State to round up State income tax evaders and delinquents has resulted in collection of $307,530 in delinquent or additional income taxes in Missouri, from last July to Dec. 1, of which $238,800 was collected in St. Louis. State Auditor Thompson announced today. This brings the State income tax collections for the year up to $3,587,249. Thompson estimated the total collections from delinquents, or detection of tax evasions, would reach $500,000 for the entire State, by March 1.

Agents of the State Auditor, who have been at work in St. Louis checking State returns in co-operation with local officials, are to be transferred to St. Charles, Jefferson and St. Louis Counties in a few days to make similar investigations there.

BANKER'S FORTUNE SAVED BY MAN WHOM HE SPURNED

Iowan Did Not Want Bookkeeper to Marry Daughter, but They Elected and Became Rich.

THEN IOWA BANK NEEDED MONEY

And Oil-King Son-in-Law Came to Rescue, Reorganized Bank and Saved Family.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KNOXVILLE, Ia., Dec. 10.—Waite Phillips, a bookkeeper, years ago eloped with the daughter of J. B. Elliott, a Knoxville banker, then reputed to be wealthy.

Phillips was spurned by the family and left to his own resources. He went to Oklahoma, made millions, returned to Knoxville to find his father-in-law's bank rocking on its foundation and furnished the money to save it. That is the tale of fate that has furnished the drama in the life of Waite Phillips.

Eighteen years ago Waite Phillips with a capital of a few hundred dollars married Veva Elliott, but not finding himself in the best of his father-in-law's bank moved to Oklahoma, where he made a fortune in oil.

A month ago, after 18 years partial estrangement from his wife's family, Waite hurried back to Knoxville and as a capitalist now worth about $400,000, established his father-in-law's bank to the extent of $800,000 and saved the Elliott fortune.

Family Objected to Marriage.

Scarcely 20 years ago Waite was a bookkeeper with part interest in the Hawkeye Mines, two miles east of Knoxville. He fell in love with the banker's daughter, and married her despite family objections, and lived to see the day when he was able to rescue a fortune from his father-in-law and advance the bank to the position of being one of the strongest financial institutions in Iowa.

Waite Phillips four months ago sold out his interests in the Phillips Co. of Tulsa to Blair & Co., bankers of New York for $250,000.

"When Waite left Knoxville I knew he had not saved more than $2000 at most," stated his father-in-law looking back on the remarkable career of the young "upstart."

"And what Waite did, he did himself without help from anyone," recalled Elliott with just a smile as he added the Phillips of 20 years ago.

Waite, with his brother, Frank Phillips, left the Hawkeye Mine, where they were scarcely making ends meet, and in becoming interested in oil in Oklahoma associated themselves with another brother, L. E. Phillips, and today all three are multimillionaires.

Sensation of Oil World.

Waite Phillips was born at Gracely, Ia., 43 years ago, went to Bartlesville, Ok., in 1907, and with his two brothers, operated there until he moved to Okmulgee in 1915.

Waite soon found himself on the highway to fortune, and on May 1, 1922, all his holdings were merged in the Waite Phillips Co.

It was the expansion of the company was the talk of the oil world. Blair & Co., bankers of New York, who bought out Phillips four months ago, have acted at different times as fiscal agents for the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. It is said that they paid a sum of $2,000,000 to close the deal with Phillips.

Meanwhile the fortunes of Waite's father-in-law, J. B. Elliott, were not so happy. Collateral shrank during the war and loans that were believed to be gift-edged, melted away.

The Knoxville National Bank found itself in need of ready cash. And one month ago Waite came back to Knoxville, took up all the doubtful paper of the bank at a cost approximately of $800,000 and helped reorganize the institution under the name of the Knoxville National Bank and Trust Co.

Two-thirds of the stockholders endorsed the proposition and the others knew nothing about the reorganization until it was announced three weeks ago.

"We have just done what many banks should do—but which few have been able to do," declared Mr. Elliott, commenting on the reorganization.

And so, thanks to a young upstart of a son-in-law the Knoxville National Bank and Trust Co. started business with a paid-up capital and surplus of $125,000. And at the end of its first day's business it had deposits of $1,500,000, loans of about $700,000, and cash on hand and due from banks of more than $800,000.

Socially Prominent Girl Who Rakes Functions

MISS ELLEN MACKAY.

REJOICES AT DECLINE OF DIGNIFIED PARTY

Miss Ellen Mackay Says Younger Set Refuses to Abide by Its Conventions.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Miss Ellen Mackay, daughter of Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph Co., was presented to the "Four Hundred" four years ago and since then has moved in the social world, even playing hostess to the Prince of Wales in the Mackay home, Harbor Hill, at Roslyn, L. I., last year.

Two weeks ago her maiden venture in literature appeared in the gaudy-jacketed New Yorker. Her second effort will appear on the news stands today in the same publication. The first was captioned, "Why We Go to Cabarets," and wore the subhead, "A Post-Debutante Explains." The latest contribution is called "The Declining Function," and carries the subhead, "A Post-Debutante Rejoices."

Dignified Parties Dying Out.

"The function," or dignified party, Miss Mackay says, is dying out in New York because the over-complimentary proportions it assumed forced it to be reduced to party proportions again in self-defense. It is passing because the independent younger generation refuses to abide by its conventions and because 'civilized' people are learning to take their pleasures less solemnly."

"They realize," Miss Mackay continues, "that an important party can be a festive occasion and need not be a penance. They have found out that their own individual charm is of more importance than the badge of social respectability that must be won through the torment of boredom."

"A morbid fear of being considered snobbish has frightened many hostesses into a democracy more complete than that of our better hotel keepers. . . . Her democracy has left the hostess with a complacent expression of people on her hands who have not enough in common to amuse themselves, who must be entertained."

Good Social Lions Hard to Find.

The hostess accordingly goes hunting for social lions—celebrities to keep her guests amused—Miss Mackay says. But:

"Most of the lions are not very good ones. It is hard to coax a really great artist to play Tommy Tucker at a party. . . . They have found out that their own individual charm is of more importance than the badge of social respectability that must be won through the torment of boredom."

50 BODIES TAKEN FROM MINE AFTER GAS EXPLOSION; 3 OTHERS DEAD

43 Victims in Alabama Disaster Are Negroes—Relatives Keep an All-Night Vigil at Shaft.

HEAD OF COMPANY AIDS RESCUE WORK

President Goes Into Mine to Direct Crews—15 Men Made Escape Following Explosion of Gas.

By the Associated Press.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.—With a death list of 53 believed to have been definitely determined, rescue workers were making final efforts today to remove three bodies remaining in Overton Mine No. 2, which was partly wrecked by a gas explosion yesterday. The bodies remaining in the mine are those of two white men and one Negro. Of the 50 bodies already removed, 43 are Negro.

The work of rescue virtually completed, the sorrowing community turned to burial of its dead and the help it might give the bereaved.

Of the 53 men killed, only two were unmarried, and most of them were parents of large families. Among the victims was the Rev. A. C. Collins, Negro, pastor of the White Hill Baptist Church.

The Overton mine is considered by Federal and State mine officials one of the best equipped in the Alabama mine field. The blast did not wreck the air machinery and this aided the rescue parties.

An All-Night Vigil.

Woe-stricken fathers kept vigil about the pit's mouth through a night of sorrow. The color line was obliterated; white and Negro were united in a common grief and each tried to assume the other's loss. Rain began falling at daybreak but women never budged from the guard lines.

A Negro miner owes his escape to his mule. Back somewhere in the pit when the gas was worst and conditions appeared darkest for the entombed men, out through the slope opening dashed a big fat mule. Clinging to the mule's tail was the Negro who had become temporarily blinded by the blast and took this means of saving himself.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined by mine bureau and company officials, but blame is attributed to a carelessly thrown cigarette, a lighted match, or a "windy shot."

According to the mine superintendent, 108 men, of whom about 25 were white, checked in for work Thursday morning, just before the explosion. Of the 108, it is said 27 men were beyond the range of the blast, leaving 81 in the danger zone. Fifteen men made their escape.

Rescue Crews at Work.

According to rescue workers, "nothing living could have survived the inferno which swept the slopes and ledges after the explosion." Caution was exercised early this morning in exploring the far reaches of the mine lest the remaining gases should belch forth into a new explosion.

Charles de Bardleben, president of the Alabama Fuel and Iron Co., worked in the mine from 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon until late last night, directing the workmen.

STILL FOUND ON BATTLESHIP, THREE PETTY OFFICERS HELD

Lieutenant on U. S. S. Texas Discovered Device in Operation at Norfolk, Va.

By the Associated Press.
NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 11.—Three warrant officers and a mess attendant on the battleship Texas, now at the Naval Navy Yard, are under arrest, and have been recommended for trial by general court-martial on charges of operating a still on board the ship. They are W. A. Barnes and H. M. Wilkinson, both electrician's mates, first class; R. A. Cuttidge, machinist's mate, second class, and S. Venable, a mess attendant. All are charged with conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline.

The specifications allege that on Dec. 1, Lieut. A. L. Broughton found the still in operation and one or two of the men under the influence of liquor.

The Texas has been at the navy yard several months for alterations. The part of the ship where the still was discovered is frequented only at intervals by officers and usually is in charge of a petty officer.

HER, MILLINER AVERS

Not Only Married Stranger, but Banked Checks for Him.

Miss Kathryn Jervis Adranson, a milliner of Granite City, Ill., who at week filed suit to annul her marriage to Morris Adranson, a pseudo fashion artist, declared yesterday she had been placed under a hypnotic spell by Adranson, who remained under his influence until he deserted her at Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22.

"A man came into my store on Sept. 14 and introduced himself as Morris Adranson, a commercial artist, connected with a fashion show then being conducted in Granite City," Mrs. Adranson said. "He returned on succeeding days and at the third or fourth visit offered to be my store. I didn't want to sell, but I could not seem to avoid his influence."

"On Sept. 21 he came back and gave me two checks, one for $3000 and one for $1000, which he said were evidence of his 'good faith' in proposed marriage and induced me to accompany him to Springfield after I had deposited the checks in a Granite City bank."

"I gave him $500, which I drew from the bank, and was married at Springfield by a minister the same night," Mrs. Adranson said.

"The next day I tried to draw on the $4000 represented by the checks, but was told by Springfield bankers that investigation through Granite City Bank disclosed the checks to be worthless. When I returned to the hotel my husband said he was going out and I haven't seen him since."

Mrs. Adranson declared the hypnotic spell departed the same time her husband did and she returned to Granite City to learn that he had never been connected with the fashion show. The hypnotic influence is not mentioned in the annulment suit, the charge being desertion and misrepresentation by Adranson.

FREE OF HUSBAND WHO MADE RULES FOR HER CONDUCT

Ralph E. Ogle's Matrimonial Code Classed as General Indignity by His Wife, Irene.

Mrs. Irene Jewel Ogle, 29 years old, of 4121 Westminster place, was granted a divorce yesterday after her attorney laid before Circuit Judge Pearce a rigid set of rules which her husband, Ralph E. Ogle, 24, of 3855 Deimar boulevard, prepared after a separation last May and submitted as terms of reconciliation.

The ultimatum was closely written on stationery of a correspondence school and proposed to regulate virtually every act of Mrs. Ogle's daily life.

It was prefaced with the statement: "If you will give me your promise to abide by the following, I will give you a chance to make good with me."

The rules follow:

When speaking to me, you will call me one of these three names: "Hubby," "Ralph," or "Mr. Ogle."

When speaking of me to a third party, you will refer to me as "Your husband," or "Mr. Ogle." No other salutation will be used in referring to me to any other person.

Objects to Epithets.

The use of such salutations as "little shrimp," "that boob" and "old fool" shall at no time be used in referring to your husband.

You will keep company with no man except your husband, on any occasion. No exceptions will be granted, and you will be a true, loyal, respecting wife at all times, holding the highest respect for the husband whose name you carry.

Your room will be kept in a clean, sanitary and orderly condition at all times, washing and ironing to be done weekly and cleaning of leaving dirty dishes from one meal to the next will be discontinued.

Your only thought will not be to sleep until a couple of minutes before time to leave for work, but you will arise early enough to prepare and eat your breakfast and clean up your dishes before leaving for work.

You will at all times keep my clothing and your own in good repair, seeing that my clothing is neat and clean at all times and that my suit is pressed as often as necessary to keep it in good press and of good appearance.

You will be very careful in the way in which you speak to your husband, with a sweet disposition and proper attention you could restrain my feelings for otherwise it would be impossible.

Balks at Housework.

Do not expect me to do your housework, as I have done many times, as your expectations will be fruitless, and remember, I can live just as well, or even better, without you.

You will continue to work up to me. I have a small bank account and I am proper to ask you to quit. On Sunday you will turn over your pay for the previous week to me and I will supply you from time to time with such money as I think sufficient for your expenses. The balance will be used in paying rent and other expenses of the household and deposits in the bank.

You shall at no time make any withdrawals from the bank without first obtaining my permission.

Above all, never lie to me, for a few of your lies worked the greatest part in the cause of this separation.

You will at no time say anything improper or degrading of your husband to anyone, and your continual nagging and expressions of disgust and hate of your husband and married life will cease at once.

Suggests Some Darning.

When I desire to read or study you will make no objection whatever, but will use such time in gainful work, such as sewing, darning or improving the appearance of our rooms.

Mrs. Ogle alleged general indignities, asserting her husband had a quarrelsome, nagging disposition and insisted she work although his own employment was irregular.

They married in Mansfield, Ark., Sept. 5, 1925, and separated June 6 last, she said.

Ogle did not contest the suit and Mrs. Ogle was granted restoration of her maiden name, Atkins. She is employed by a certain manufacturing company at 4315 Olive street.

Address by W. S. Gifford Closes Annual Session at St. Petersburg, Fla.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 11.—The fourteenth annual convention of the American Investment Bankers closed here today. Three hundred of the 550 delegates in attendance departed this afternoon for Havana, Cuba, while the others depart on special trains for their homes.

The closing day's program was featured by an address delivered by W. S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. He spoke on "Significant Factors in Our Economic Progress."

The relation of business and government is becoming more clearly defined, and it is being recognized that the fields of each are independent and that each can properly assist the other without interfering with the other, Gifford said in his address.

Regulation Advantageous.

"Not so long ago," he stated, "the business world was opposed to any form of government regulation, but today it is felt that such regulation can be worked out with every prospect of advantage."

Calling attention to the present trend toward public ownership of large enterprises, Gifford noted a relative tendency toward a "different responsibility of management, the management becoming in effect trustees for the investments of large and scattered bodies of people."

"With it, also," he added, "would seem to go a change in the relation between labor and capital. The old master and servant idea, which almost necessarily existed when the owner was the manager, is given place to a system based more on the spirit of co-operation than of control."

"With the increased facilities for transportation and communication the entire country is becoming rapidly homogenous. The North is losing whatever peculiar and distinctive qualities they had, and the country as a whole is becoming a vast neighborhood."

One Economic Neighborhood.

In dwelling on the idea of the nation as a "vast economic neighborhood" and remarking on the growing appreciation of culture and art in the United States, Gifford dwelt upon an era of increased material well-being, based on an intricate and somewhat delicately balanced organization of its business activities."

WAR VETERAN, OF WEALTHY FAMILY, HELD AS FORGER

Disabled at Gallipoli and Estranged from Father in Britain, Says He Forged Checks to Live.

Maurice Davis, whose left ribs were shot away in the British attack at Gallipoli, and who says he was promoted as an Anzac from private to First Lieutenant, for heroism in battle, is in city jail, unable to give bond, under a warrant for obtaining money under false pretenses, for a $25 check forgery.

The estranged son of a wealthy Londoner, he says his wounds made him unable to work and he had to forge to live. A recent examination by the Veterans' Bureau here, in behalf of the British Government, he declares, showed him to be entitled to 50 per cent disability back pay and $1600 back pension, which he has awaited daily to relieve his want.

He is 31 years old, tall, blond and blue-eyed. His face shows the marks of pain and his clothes are shabby. In the place of his left ribs are silver plates and his left leg is shrunken because the heel was grafted onto the instep to repair a shrapnel wound. His father sent him $150 through the British consulate here, with the request that no more be asked.

Says Father Is Rich.

"My father is rich," Davis said to a Post-Dispatch reporter in his cell today, but he would say no more about his parent. He continued: "I used to have my own string of horses at London. I studied at Cambridge and in Brussels and can speak five languages."

"I was in Australia, seeing the world, when the war broke out, and joined up as an Anzac. I got my wounds at Gallipoli, when they smashed in thousands of us. I got three individual decorations for valor, but that sort of thing is all forgotten now. I was in British hospitals for some time. The doctors told me to go to a hot climate, so I went to the Malays and made some money growing rubber."

"After three years there I returned home and found the government stricter than ever. He wanted me to go into business, with him, but I objected and broke with him and came to America 18 months ago. I came to St. Louis eight months ago. For a while I was a scenographer at the Terminal Railroad, but my wounds hurt so I could not work regularly, so I quit."

"I went to a friend and gave my I. O. U.'s for $150 and then put my case up to the British Consul. He called my father and got money to pay this back. I went to the Veterans' Bureau for examination and since they showed I had $1600 back pension due I have been waiting right along for it."

Trives Scenography Writing.

"Finally I was up against it. I went to the Railroad Y. M. C. A., where I used to stay and got the restaurant proprietor, W. E. Hasler, to cash a $25 check I signed with a fictitious name. What was I to do? I was starving. I cashed another had check for $23 at the La Salle Hotel, but there has been no complaint about that. Later I have been trying to write short stories and movie scenarios. I got a letter from the Fox film people saying they were impressed with one scenario and were giving it a second reading."

"Police officers were so impressed by Davis' story that they started to raise a fund to make the checks good, till the warrant was issued. He was arrested at Hasler's complaint Wednesday at the Orpheum Hotel, Ninth and Chestnut streets."

At the British consulate it was said Davis is the son of L. Lebeug, Davis proprietor of the Davis Feather Mills, London, and that a fractured right leg in the war.

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION TO CURB HOME ACCIDENTS

Coroner Announces Plan After Meeting of 25 Civil Agencies Co-operating With the Safety Council.

A campaign of education to reduce the number of preventable accidents in homes, which last month cost 24 lives in St. Louis, was announced yesterday by Coroner Vitt after a meeting of 25 civil agencies co-operating with the St. Louis Safety Council.

"In the last year 37 children under five years old burned to death because their parents carelessly permitted them to play with matches, to play near open grate fires clad in flimsy garments, or with pails of hot fluids within their easy grasp," the Coroner said.

"Last year more than 20 infants were smothered to death between heavy bed clothing because of ignorance of parents in not placing them in separate cribs."

The Unloaded Weapon.

"Cleaning guns that are 'not loaded' takes its toll of life each year."

"Poorly constructed tenement property, such as defective railings, stairways, etc., cause falls to young and old. Poor supervision of old, infirm persons adds to the toll through falls, burns and inability to act quickly because of age. Young children left unattended while mothers' answer telephones or door bells often pull boiling water over on themselves or drink poisons left lying around."

Fatalities in November.

During November Coroner Vitt declared, 12 men, women and children were killed in preventable falls, seven were burned to death, three poisoned by escaping gas, and two killed by the accidental discharge of firearms.

The list of such accidents for the first six months of the year contains 242 deaths, divided as follows: Falls, 114; burns, 76; asphyxiation, 23; firearms, 10; poison, 9, and miscellaneous, 9.

31 ARRESTS AT ORDER OF INSPECTOR OF WEIGHTS

Thirty-one vendors of coal, fruits, fish and other commodities were arrested today by deputies under Inspector of Weights and Measures Haley, for using unmarked baskets, unmarked scales or no scales at all, in violation of city ordinance. They will be in police court tomorrow.

In a similar drive two weeks ago 22 persons were arrested, assessed costs in police court and ordered to obtain the proper equipment for weighing and measuring their goods.

Man Injured in Fall.

William Stefe, 23 years old, of 346 Hickory street, was in such a hurry yesterday afternoon that he jumped from the second-story of a building which he was wrecking at 1701 Singleton street, instead of descending on a ladder, suffering a fractured right leg in the leap.

SON'S FLUTE PLAYING "DRIVES HIM CRAZY"

County Resident Complains to Authorities but They Refuse to Issue Warrant.

When a man cannot get a peace-disturbance warrant against his own son, who plays 12 flutes there is something radically wrong with the machinery of justice, says George Smythe, 58 years old, of Walter and Eads avenue, St. Louis County.

He told his story yesterday at Clayton to the Sheriff, the Prosecuting Attorney, a Justice of the Peace and a Post-Dispatch reporter.

No one would issue a warrant against his son, William Jean, 26. "He is driving me crazy with his flute-playing," said Smythe. "I work hard all day and I generally come home tired and go to bed about midnight. Then he gets out his 12 flutes, lays them on a window sill, sticks cotton in his ears, and starts to run up and down the scales."

"He never plays anything but the scales. If I order him to stop, or beg him to stop, so I can sleep, he says, 'Go to hell.' He plays all night."

"I got him a job with a band in Washington, but he got fired and came back. I got a him a job in East St. Louis, but he got lonesome and came home. He always comes back. He's a nuisance and I ought to have some protection."

Smythe is canvassing Clayton attorneys to find someone who will file an injunction suit against his son.

The son could not be reached for a statement.

DOG, VISITING DEATH SCENE OF OWNER, KILLED BY TRAIN

Friends Plan to Bury It Under Bridge Near Where Body of Man Fell.

On Dec. 1 Tony Biscatt, a miner, was killed by an Illinois Central passenger train that knocked him from a bridge near Glen Carbon, Ill. Last Wednesday Biscatt's dog was struck and killed on the same bridge by the same train.

Following the death of the dog persons living in the vicinity of the bridge reported they had seen the dog visit the bridge daily above its master's death. Biscatt, who was unmarried, lived alone and the dog was his almost constant companion. Friends of Biscatt plan to bury the dog underneath the bridge at a spot where both it and Biscatt fell after being struck.

CANADIAN TELLS HISTORY AND AIMS OF CHURCH UNION

The new United Church of Canada has grown stronger in the first six months of its existence than advocates expected it to become in 10 years. The Rev. Dr. George Campbell Pidgeon of Toronto, first moderator of the United Church, said in his address at a Church Federation dinner at Hotel Chase last night.

About 1200 members of St. Louis, St. Louis County and East Side churches, chiefly of the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Congregational, Christian and Episcopal denominations, heard Dr. Pidgeon tell the story of the new church, formed last June by organic union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches of the Dominion.

He made it clear that he was not advocating church union in the United States, saying that each people should determine for itself whether such action would be advisable. In Canada, he said, union was made necessary by the action of many individual congregations. In the Western provinces, they united without waiting for the official union of the church bodies, and in order to keep them in relation to missionary and benevolent enterprises, the church bodies had to unite.

Couldn't Wait for Them. There were some who did not see this necessity, Dr. Pidgeon said, and some Presbyterians have refused to give up the historic name of their church, and have remained out of the union. "They are some of our best people," commented Dr. Pidgeon, who was himself a Presbyterian. "They are the salt of the earth, in fact—but we couldn't wait for them."

There were 1245 churches, representing 3100 preaching pulpits in the United States, and about 2,000,000 members, now regards itself as the national church of Canada, and hopes to make itself to Canada what the Church of England has been to England, with the difference that the Canadian church is not formally established in financial and official relations with the Government.

Dr. Pidgeon said that the present union represented movements which have been going on in Canada since 1817. The Presbyterian Church of Canada was formed by nine successive amalgamations of different churches. The Methodist Church represented what were formerly 15 separate bodies, and the Congregational Church was formed from what had been three churches. He said that the provincial union which formed the Dominion of Canada, in 1867, had been a great incentive to church union.

"The older men, who remember the accomplishment of political union, were the strongest supporters of church union," he said. Old Schemes in New World. Church divisions in Canada, Dr. Pidgeon said, had been in many cases the continuation of divisions arising from local causes in England or Scotland. For instance, in Edinburgh the Presbyterians split into Burghers and anti-Burghers, on the question of taking the Burgher oath, required by the civil authorities. This division was carried on in Nova Scotia for more than 30 years, though none of the causes of the controversy existed in Nova Scotia.

The principle adopted in the earlier and smaller church unions, and finally in the larger union, he said, was that, when dividing issues had ceased to exist, the memory of them should not be permitted to keep believers apart.

The statement of this principle was applauded heartily by the diners, some of whom noted its application to the division between the Methodist Episcopal Church and the M. E. Church, South, in this country. St. Louis and Missouri Methodists of both branches supported the recent merger proposal, which was lost through opposition in the Southern states. The Rev. Dr. A. H. Armstrong, executive secretary of the Church Federation, speaking briefly, after Dr. Pidgeon, said that the churches in this country, without having organic union, enjoyed many of the benefits of union through local church federations and the Federal Council of Churches. These interchurch organizations are working to put a stop to rivalry and overlapping of denominations.

New Officers Elected. New officers for the Church Federation were elected and installed. The Rev. Dr. Henry Alford Porter, pastor of the Third Baptist Church, is the new president, replacing the Rev. Dr. Edward S. Travers of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, who presided at the dinner. Other officers elected were: Vice presidents, W. Palmer Clark, Mrs. C. E. Jordan, Christian Bernet and J. W. Friston; secretary, E. C. Luedde, and treasurer, A. O. Wilson. The 1926 budget of the Federation, amounting to $25,426, was approved. Of this, the Community Fund is to provide $20,000 and the individual churches the balance.

18 AMERICANS ON TRAIN UNDER FIRE FROM CHINESE

Gen. Li Thinks International Special, Guarded by U. S. Troops, a Ruse of War.

By the Associated Press.
PEKIN, Dec. 11.—Eighteen American passengers were on board the international train which left for Tientsin with a detachment of United States infantry as a special guard. They included Mrs. B. Calhoun, widow of former United States Minister Calhoun, and Tiffany Blake and wife of Chicago.

The train reached Yangtsun this morning. Four miles to the south Gen. Li Ching-Ling's troops fired on it, breaking windows and doing other damage. The official report alleges that the Chinese feared an enemy ruse in the use of foreign flags to cover the approach of Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang's armored train. The train returned to Yangtsun, where some of the passengers tramped several miles and obtained motor cars in which to proceed to Tientsin.

PORTUGUESE PRESIDENT QUILTS

Health Given by Gomes as Reason for Resignation.

LISBON, Dec. 11.—Portugal, accustomed to cabinet changes, is confronted with a major crisis over the resignation of President Teixeira Gomes, who served his country for more than two years. He gave ill health as a reason, and thus, substantiated previous reports revealing the President's precarious state of health which prompted physicians to advise him to go to Viçña for a long stay and cure. Bernardino Machado, who was ousted from the presidency of the Republic by means of a revolt in December, 1917 and exiled, only to be recalled in 1921 to become Premier, ranks foremost among those mentioned to succeed the retiring President. Another aspirant is Dr. Duarte Leite, Ambassador to Brazil, which is being urged by friends to become a candidate and enter the presidential elections.

CORNER AT GRAND AND WASHINGTON IS SOLD

Reports That Theater or a Larger Exhibition Structure Is Planned.

It is understood in realty circles that the acquisition of the Humboldt Building, at the southwest corner of Grand and Washington boulevards, and of properties adjoining it to the south and west, was made with a view toward erecting a large structure—a movie theater or a larger building similar to the Coliseum.

Confirmation of the report could not be obtained today from A. M. Frumberg, an attorney, who has been named as the purchaser, and who, it is presumed, represents a syndicate. The purchase price was announced as approximately $2,250,000.

It was pointed out by realty operators that a structure could be built around the Humboldt Building, a six-story structure tenanted mainly by physicians, surgeons and dentists. The new structure could have a grand entrance facing the Washington cut-off and another entrance on Washington boulevard, west of the Humboldt Building.

Frumberg was unwilling to disclose any plans for improvement. The buildings which changed ownership include on Grand boulevard the Humboldt Building and the Midway Movie Theater, formerly the Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church. Stores front on the ground floor of both. On Washington boulevard, west of the Humboldt, are two converted residences, one known as the Applied Arts Building.

The purchasers obtained a frontage of 244 feet on Grand and about 260 feet on Washington, some being acquired by direct sale and some by transfer of leaseholds.

A 99-year lease was obtained from the Sidney Real Estate Co., Sidney M. Schoenberg, secretary-treasurer, which owns the Midway and a 60-foot lot on Washington, and stock control was purchased of the Martha Realty Co., which owns the Humboldt Building and the two converted residences.

FLORIDA SHOULD GO SLOW, THINKS HEAD OF BANKERS

But Fundamental Values Are There, Says Oscar Wells, Who Is in St. Louis for Fiduciary Conference.

Bankers representing 15 states, from Michigan to Texas and from Alabama to North Dakota, met today at Hotel Statler in the Mid-Continent Fiduciary Conference of the American Bankers' Association. A banquet will be held at the Statler at 6 o'clock this evening. The final session of the conference will be held tomorrow morning.

Oscar Wells, president of the First National Bank of Birmingham, Ala., and president of the American Bankers' Association, is here for the conference. In a statement given out before the meeting he said:

"Business and finance are in sound condition. This was shown when the recent adjustment in the security market, though one of the most severe in history, was accomplished without demoralization in the stock market itself and with no ill effect on general conditions."

About Florida Banks.

"It seems generally agreed that stock speculation had gone to a point warranting the salutary check that came to it. In Florida, also, land speculation has gone beyond the bounds of conservatism. The explanation seems to be that the real potentialities of Florida, which have long been there, and which have been developed conservatively over a long period, have suddenly become generally realized—and are being exploited perhaps too rapidly—but since fundamental values are there, what adjustment may become necessary will be in detail where things have been overdone rather than in any general reaction."

"Bankers attending this meeting agree that, to a very unusual degree for so active a business period, the financial, industrial and mercantile activities of the nation involved in the production, distribution and consumption of commodities are, generally speaking, free from overtrading and unwise expansion."

"Some make an exception in regard to building construction, expressing the belief that expansion here is continuing at too fast a rate and that any sudden reaction would be widely felt because of the size of this business and because of the number of other important lines related to it. They therefore regard as timely measures aimed to promote a gradually modified pace."

Subjects for Discussion.

The subjects to be discussed in the conference, and members who are scheduled for the different parts of the discussion, are:

Executors and Administrators, William C. Barber of Joliet, Ill., and Frederick Wierling of St. Louis.

Trusteeship of Estates, Frank N. Bancroft of Denver and John C. Mechem of Chicago.

Transfer Agent and Registrar of Stock, David P. Condon, New York.

Trusteeship Under Corporate Mortgages, F. P. Taylor of Chicago and C. Allison, Study of New York.

Trust Funds, Carl E. Westmont, W. J. Stevenson of Minneapolis.

New Business and How to Get It, Allan B. Cook of Cleveland.

At the banquet tonight Breckinridge Jones of St. Louis, chairman of the General Committee of the conference, will preside as toastmaster. President Wells and James H. Perkins of Chicago, chairman of the speakers, will preside over the speakers at the day sessions. John G. Lonsdale of St. Louis and Edward J. Fox of Boston, Pa., vice president of the trust company division of the American Bankers' Association.

Frank D. Loomis, executive secretary of the Chicago Community Trust, spoke on the relation of the Community Trust to the public and to banking institutions. The purpose of such trusts, as he explained, are to accumulate and conserve funds for charitable and educational purposes, to offer safeguards to the gifts of those of large and small means; and, from the standpoint of the banks, to develop the principle of corporate trusteeship.

A committee, or board, is responsible for the distribution of the income of the Community Trust. The trust company handling the fund is responsible for administration of the principal, so that the responsibility is clearly divided.

Such committees are not self-perpetuating. In Chicago, the speaker said, three of the five members are named by designated public officials, one by the Mayor, one by a Federal Judge and one by the Probate Judge, while the two others are selected by the bank holding the funds.

While some have feared that political influences would be introduced in this way, the speaker said, it seemed that more persons had been attracted than repelled by this arrangement. The board, he said, must command public confidence, or gifts will not be made.

Terms of From 50 Years to Life for Holdup Men Advocated.

More severe penalties for holdup robberies, ranging from 50 years to life imprisonment, were recommended yesterday by the Administrative Committee of the

FEES IN TRAFFIC CASES IN COUNTY UNDER INQUIRY

Grand Jury Begins Investigation of Complaints of Motorists Against Justices of Peace.

RECORDS OF COURTS WILL BE EXAMINED

Judges, With One Exception, Not to Be Called, as That Would Bar Their Indictment.

A grand jury investigation into the fees charged by St. Louis County Justices of the Peace, in cases of motorists arrested on speeding or other traffic charges, began today. It was brought about by complaints of the Automobile Club of Missouri, and is being conducted by Prosecuting Attorney Mueller.

Mueller said today that the Justices, seemingly by agreement, are collecting an average of $7.60 court costs in every motorist's case, and that about $4.75 of this amount is collected illegally, being based on services of the Justice and Constable which are not legally required, or which are not performed. The Prosecuting Attorney said that the records of the justice courts would be placed before the grand jury, but that the justices themselves would not be called as witnesses. By appearing as witnesses, the justices would be rendered immune to indictment.

One Justice to Testify. An exception will be Justice A. H. Werremeyer of Clayton, who said today that he would go before the grand jury, and would testify that at least one-half the fees collected are unnecessary, or are for services not performed.

The Justices, about two years ago, held a hard-pressed conference at which they announced that they could not live on the income they were then receiving, and agreed on a program of increasing court costs. Since that time "drives" put on by Constables, such as the wholesale arresting and fining of those not having 1925 licenses last March, have caused complaints by the Automobile Club, and the club's counsel, Gus Vahlkamp, asked for a grand jury investigation. He also asked the last grand jury to recommend abolition of the fee system.

Vahlkamp was the first witness before the jury. He later told reporters he had presented evidence in eight cases, sufficient, in his opinion as a lawyer, to warrant the indictment of five Justices and two or more Deputy Constables. Names of motorists who have been arrested and illegally charged with court costs will be obtained by the jury from the Justices' records and they will be summoned as witnesses. The inquiry may last two weeks.

Law to Be Invoked. The statutes to be invoked in the case, Prosecuting Attorney Mueller said, probably will be Section 2194, against fraud in office, and Section 2196, exacting illegal fees, in connection with Sections 10,987 and 10,988, which fix the legal fees of constables and justices. The offenses named are misdemeanors, punishable by fine up to $500 or imprisonment up to one year, or both. Conviction of fraud in office also carries forfeiture of office and disqualification from holding office in future.

As listed by the Prosecuting Attorney, the fees which do not appear to be sustained by law are: For the Justices—Administering oaths, 5 cents each, whereas oaths are not necessary in justice courts; subpoenas, 25 cents, whereas no subpoena is actually issued in most cases; warrant, 35 cents, which should be charged in criminal cases only; docketing and filing, $1, a service not performed; indexing, 10 cents, another fictitious service. Irregular Charges by Constables. For the constables—Serving warrants, $1, whereas no warrant is served; taking bond, 30 cents, whereas no regular bond is taken, the dependants being merely told to appear; serving subpoena, 60 cents, another thing which is not done; and mileage, average of $1 a case.

While the inquiry is directed primarily at illegal exactions by the Justices, it is likely that irregular practices of constables, such as "roadside courts" and "shakedown" in other forms, will be investigated.

SALT LABORATORY BLAST CAUSES $1500 FIRE LOSS

Nitric Acid Fumes Thought to Have Caused Explosion at Mallinckrodt Works.

An explosion in the metallic salt laboratory of the Mallinckrodt Chemical Works, at 3600 North Second street, at 10:40 a. m. today, caused about $1500 damage to a two-story brick building.

Fire, which ensued, was soon extinguished by firemen and confined to one room on the second floor. No one was injured. One man who is in charge of gas burners in the manufacture of the salt was absent from the laboratory at the time.

Dr. A. C. Boylston, general manager of the plant, advanced the theory that nitric acid fumes caused the explosion.

REVENUE BUREAU CRITICISED FOR OIL FIRM TAX METHODS

Testimony of Investigators Submitted in Report of Congress Committee to Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Sharp criticism of the methods of the Internal Revenue Bureau in handling the tax cases of the Gulf Oil Corporation, the Standard Oil Co. of California, and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation was made in testimony before a Senate investigating committee, made public with its presentation to the Senate. Counsel and engineers employed by the committee charged that:

The Government lost a total of $4,500,335 in taxes from the Gulf Oil Corporation from 1915 to 1919 at the three Secretary Mellon held large interest in it.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair and the Solicitor of the Bureau had been defied by division chiefs in efforts to settle the Standard Oil of California case, involving $3,378,000 in taxes directly and $25,000,000 indirectly.

The Sinclair Oil Corporation had been able to obtain delay after delay in the settlement of its tax cases, with a result that as yet it was not closed for 1916.

Charges also were made that the tax cases of S. G. Kennedy and T. A. Springer, who made a profit of $6,000,000 on the sale of Oklahoma oil lands in 1916, was "kicked around from pillar to post until the statute of limitation ran and no tax was assessed against them."

FIVE LIQUOR CONSPIRATORS GET 16 MONTHS IN PRISON

Sixth Man in Peoria-Des Moines Case Turned State's Evidence and Is Fined $1000.

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 11.—Five of the six men who pleaded guilty in the Peoria-Des Moines liquor conspiracy case were sentenced yesterday to 16 months in Federal prison by Judge Andrew Miller. W. D. Hummel of Des Moines, who had turned State's evidence, was fined $1000.

The five men—John McKiernan, Hyman Lipkin and W. H. Balance Jr. of Peoria, and H. F. Schaller and M. E. Levy of Des Moines—will start serving their sentence at once.

In passing sentence, Judge Miller said the mere fact that a majority of the population may not be in favor of the prohibition law does not excuse its violation. "If there is an overwhelming majority of the population against the law they can easily make their voices heard so Congress will repeal it."

He declared there was a huge conspiracy running across the entire country and that "it is plain you men are a part of the conspiracy, although you may not realize it."

Before Chairman Couzens submitted the testimony his committee decided to send its complete findings to the Treasurer for criticism and comment before filing them with the Senate.

NATIONAL BANK EXODUS LAID TO RESTRICTIVE LAWS

Comptroller of Currency
Urges Passage of McFadden Bill to Relieve Present Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—National banks throughout the country are feeling more and more the restriction laid around them by Federal statutes, and greater freedom for them was described as imperative in the annual report of J. W. McIntosh, Comptroller of the Currency, made public today. The Comptroller cited detailed statistics to show an increasing exodus from the national banking system and he predicted it would continue until the national banking laws are amended.

To accomplish the needed better, McIntosh strongly urged enactment of the McFadden bill, a measure which was passed by the House last Congress, but which never was reached by the Senate. "It is a well-known fact," the report added, "that many national banks are anxiously awaiting enactment of such a bill as that which failed at the last session of Congress. If they cannot at this time obtain some such amendments to their charter powers as are therein proposed, there will be a still greater exodus from the national system."

Resources Lower in Proportion. McIntosh said that although the resources of the national banks had steadily increased from year to year and the condition of the individual banks remained strong, the relative increase nevertheless in the total resources of the national institutions has been slowly falling off as compared with the resources of State banks and trust companies. He mentioned that during the 40-year period ending July 1, 1924, the total resources of the national banks had fallen from 75 per cent of the total banking resources of the country, to about 47 per cent. The past 18 months, he said, had witnessed a further shrinkage in the proportion of the total resources held by the national banks.

"These facts present a serious situation for the consideration of the Congress," the Comptroller said, "and I am directing attention thereto at this time chiefly for the purpose of showing that the adverse conditions of national bank operations are becoming daily accentuated. The national banking system is a time-honored Federal institution. The charter powers of the individual national banks are derived solely from Congress. Twice in the history of the United States, namely, immediately after the Civil War and immediately preceding the World War, the Federal Government was able to enforce a banking policy at a time of great financial stress through its authority to use the national banking system as an instrument for the public benefit."

Basis of Bank Regulation. "The individual national bank is always ultimately able to take care of itself in meeting the competitive condition due to more favorable State laws, by giving up its national charter and going into the State system. But the gradual loss of national banks and the consequent decrease in relative resources of the national banking system is of primary concern to the national Government, not only because the national banks form the logical and permanent basis of the Federal Reserve system but also because only through the national banking system can there be maintained throughout the United States a standardized system of banking subject to the victorial powers of the Federal Government and subservient at all times to the will of Congress."

Decided Decrease in Failures. During the year mentioned, 83 national banks became insolvent as compared with 138 national banks for the preceding year. McIntosh said that the failures had shown a decided decrease in number in the last half of the year covered by his report, the proportion being 63 for the first six months and 25 for the last six.

A large majority of the failures were small banks, the report said, and the total assets of all were materially less than assets of any one of the present important urban national banks. Seventy-one of the insolvent banks were located west of the Mississippi River, 51 of which were in the grain country north of Kansas, and 20 in the cattle country of the Southwest. There were 15 failures in the three States of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. The remaining 12 were scattered in various other States.

In his annual report announcing the proposed change, Chief Marvin of the Weather Bureau said he believed the administrative difficulties could be solved, adding, "the most effective solvent is money."

TWO MEN IN AUTO TRUCK KILLED BY INTERURBAN CAR

Center Grove Crossing, Two Miles West of Edwardsville, Scene of Another Collision.

While State, county and Illinois Traction System officials wrangle over the construction of an overhead bridge at Center Grove crossing, two miles west of Edwardsville, the death toll at the crossing from automobile-interurban collisions increases at an alarming rate.

The crossing was the scene yesterday of a collision in which two persons were killed, increasing to five the number of fatalities there in the last six months. Those killed yesterday were William M. Dorsey, 25 years old, an expressman, of 920 Wilmington road, St. Louis, and an unidentified man, about 40 years old.

Men Hurled About 40 Feet.
The two men were in Dorsey's automobile truck, bound for St. Louis, when struck by a north-bound local of the traction system. The truck was thrown across the road and the men were hurled about 40 feet, both suffering fractured skulls from which they died almost instantly.

The highway, at the crossing, runs along a depression, which causes the street car tracks to dip and partially obscure them to highway traffic. There is an electric signal light at the crossing, which is supposed to flash a red light at the approach of a street car.

Frank McCormick, who witnessed the crash from his home nearby, said Dorsey stopped before attempting to cross the tracks, about 4 p. m., and looked west in the direction from which the interurban was approaching. Apparently blinded by the sun he did not see the local and started across the tracks just as it reached the crossing. The front part of the car striking the side of the truck.

McCormick said the danger signal was working and also stated that the motorman sounded his whistle.

One Victim Unidentified.
In a pocket of the unidentified man was found a card bearing the name of "William McHugh" on which was written "E. M. McHugh Co." The address of the company was not stated on the card.

Two of Dorsey's sons, who identified his body last night, said they did not know his companion. They said yesterday afternoon hauled some furniture to an Illinois town, the name of which they did not know, and was presumed to have gone alone. The unidentified man was attired rather poorly, and it is considered possible he might have been picked up by Dorsey along the road.

Crossing Subject of Hearings.
The crossing has been the subject of many hearings before the Illinois Commission, which several months ago ordered construction of an overhead bridge at that point, the apportionment of the improvement and the other interested parties have been in conflict over their share of the costs. They have retained the commission for a rehearing on the matter and it has been set for Dec. 28 at Edwardsville.

George R. Graham, 26, of 4405 North Nineteenth street, was killed at the crossing Oct. 28, when his automobile was hit by an interurban, and two residents of Florio, Ill., were killed there June 5 in similar fashion.

MUSSOLINI CREDITS SOREL

Says Syndicalist Inspired Much of Good and Power of Fascism.

ROME, Dec. 11.—In an interview with a newspaper correspondent the other day, Signor Mussolini acknowledged the extent of the influence exercised on his mind by Georges Sorel, and added that "this master of syndicalism, with his rough-and-ready theories on revolutionary tactics, has contributed decisively in creating the discipline, energy and power of the Fascist cohorts." Nietzsche delighted the Premier only when he was 20, and helped him to strengthen his anti-democratic tendencies. The second person to influence him was the American philosopher, so diametrically opposed to Croce, whose books Mussolini says he has never read.

"William James has helped me in my career," he continued. "James taught me that an act should be judged more by results than by its essence. From him I learned to put my faith in action and in a flaming determination to live and to struggle to which Fascism owes a great part of its success."

Get $8000 in Gems; Miss $20,000.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Four men last night stole jewels valued at $8000 from Henry Davidson, president of the Henry Davidson Jewelry Co., New York, and Samuel Leibson, his salesman, and overbooked other jewelry valued at $20,000 in their haste to escape. A night watchman who happened along was wounded by the robbers. Davidson and his salesman were riding in an automobile when the automobile of the holdup men forced them to the curb.

BIG SHAKSPEAREAN COLLECTION REPORTED

Former British Laborer Says He Has 140 Sheets of Bard's Handwriting.

By ARTHUR E. MANN.
A Staff Correspondent of Post-Dispatch and the New York World.
Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co., New York World and Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The existence of a priceless collection of Shakespearean manuscripts and household relics—should the owner's claims prove true—has been disclosed here. The possessor is Hunter Charles Rogers, a former laborer of little education, who claims to be a descendant of the poet. Rogers lives near the village of Slough, 20 miles from London.

The chief prize in the collection is 140 sheets of Shakespeare's handwriting, the manuscript of plays. These, however, he is unable to produce for the examination of experts, saying they have been sent to the United States. Four of them have been sold for $100,000 there, he says.

The fact that no news of such rare acquisitions has come from America is one of the points that cause the man's claims to be received with skepticism. Certain manuscripts and rare old book covers which Rogers has exhibited to one recognized Elizabethan authority are said, however, to be from the period claimed, although the expert was unable to say positively that the alleged signatures of Shakespeare were genuine.

Rogers has showed inquirers a Bible in which are written the words "William Shakespeare—my loving mother." He also has a sixteenth century prayer book with inscriptions indicating it belonged to Shakespeare. He has a copy of Spenser's "Complaints," marked on the cover "Edward Spenser."

His Explanation of Possession.

The furniture in this collection, Rogers claims, came from the New Place, Shakespeare's home at Stratford-on-Avon. Rogers' explanation of how he got these treasures follows:

"The great poet's daughter married a Dr. Hall. Years afterward a Miss Hall, one of their descendants, married a Mr. Rogers, one of my ancestors. That is how these valuables passed into the possession of various members of my family. Their history and worth were unknown. Some of these goods were taken to Cornwall, where part of my family moved after leaving their home at Stratford, where they were contemporary with Shakespeare, and some even went to Boston, to which another branch of the Rogers emigrated. The greater part, however, were stored in a warehouse from which I have only in the last few weeks retrieved them."

Rogers produced a copy of Roger Ascham's "Schoolmaster," printed in 1571, when Shakespeare was 7. On the outside of the faded cover is written:

"Miss Hall, now Mrs. Rogers: How the world would like to find my great ancestor's writings. Not while I am on this earth will I show them."

Inside the book are the words "William Shakespeare, 1581," and some brown, almost undecipherable writing. At the foot of the page is a rough sketch of a troupe of actors on the stage with the word "Me" scrawled under one.

Other Old Documents.

Rogers also produced a large parcel of old manuscripts containing what appeared to be a number of Lambard documents and possibly some of Ciopton. Lambard was an antiquary of Shakespeare's time. The furniture includes a desk which Rogers suggests was Shakespeare's. The name "Hathaway" is cut in the surface. There is also a large refectory table with the words on the reverse side of the top, "Restored by Mr. Hall, June, 1625, in great love of my ancestor, William Shakespeare."

The expert who saw these household relics is inclined to believe some of them may be genuine.

MAN MISSING SINCE NOV. 14
Charles E. Willis, Decorator, Sought by His Wife.
Charles E. Willis, 32 years old, has been missing from his home, at 7038 Bancroft avenue, since Nov. 14. His wife, Mattie, says he left home to go to work as a decorator and paper hanger at 2515 North Twenty-fifth street, and has failed to return. Mrs. Willis says her husband's employer told her he had paid her husband $21 for work he had done and that he left work about 6 p. m. in his Ford touring car, bearing an Ohio license No. 313429 and a city plate marked Portsmouth, O., where he formerly lived.

The wife believes he has gone to Kansas City in search of his father, who had been living there. When Willis left for work he wore a blue serge suit, brown overcoat and gray cap. He has brown hair and eyes, is five feet six inches tall and weighs 145 pounds. They have a child 15 months old.

Admit Robbing Slot Machines.
The bulging pockets of two 16-year-old Negro boys at Grand and Lindell boulevards last night caused detectives to halt them and find 747 pennies and a screwdriver. The boys, now in the House of Detention, said they had rifled slot machines on Market street and Laclede avenue near Grand boulevard and led the detectives to a shed behind 2316 Lawton avenue, where a quantity of chewing gum, candy and salted peanuts were cached.

NATIONAL JEAN BARRIER TO VISCOUNT CRelative Military Stre

Disarm or Pe

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Dec. 11.—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, Great Britain's representative on the League of Nations Disarmament Commission, in an interview to the Associated Press, summarized the pitfalls to be encountered on the road to a solution of the disarmament problem, and of the forces which justify a hope that the issue will be grappled with successfully.

To estimate the prospects of disarmament, Lord Cecil said last night, would be a rash prophecy. "Undoubtedly the chief obstacle to disarmament," he said, "is the want of security, due to historical suspicions and jealousies of nations, and the consequent chauvinistic forms of nationalism. Perhaps the chief merit of our recent agreements has been the diminution they have brought among some of the most important of European nations of this attitude of suspicion. A cursory reading of the press of some of the nations involved would indicate that this amelioration does not extend to all sections of the populations. Still, a great step forward has been made."

Growing Prestige of League. "Again, the growing strength and prestige of the League of Nations is an important element toward security. The smoothness and rapidity with which the Greco-Bulgarian dispute was adjusted, and, still more, the emphatic declarations of members of the council at Paris of settling international disputes is no longer to be tolerated among members of the league, show a remarkable growth of international good will."

The more nations become in the habit of referring disputes to pacific settlement, the less they will regard one another as potential enemies. "When asked to define the domestic difficulties in the way of disarmament, Lord Cecil declared that next to international suspicion as an obstacle to disarmament he would put internal friction of the various government machines. He said the idea of disarmament was necessarily strange and unattractive to military and civil functionaries who have traditions of their own."

"They still think it more important to keep their powder dry than to trust to God," Lord Cecil said. "Practical Difficulties."

He then emphasized the practical difficulties in the way of land and air disarmament, and explained that the technical problems of naval disarmament were comparatively simple, those of army matters being much more complicated. Here numbers, he said, furnished no criterion of the strength of land forces.

Even assuming that all nationalities were equally brave—a very large assumption—it remains true that in a modern army guns, rifles, tanks and bombs are of greater importance in estimating strength than the number of soldiers," Lord Cecil continued. "Yet to draw up a list of weapons of war is almost impracticable, and such lists would require constant revision. Moreover, who shall compare one kind of weapon with another? Who shall say how many rifles are equal to a tank? Who shall make any scale of that kind?"

Turning to the question of air armaments, Lord Cecil said the problem here was further complicated by the fact that civil aircraft can be utilized for military purposes with scarcely any alteration, yet inquiries have arrived at the conclusion that to attempt to limit aviation was impracticable. He was convinced, therefore, that the first difficulty to overcome was that of finding a standard by which to measure land and air armaments against each other.

Relative Strength of Nations. Assuming that this difficulty can be solved, as I think it can, there still remains the greatest question of all, namely: On what principle can be settled the strength of the armaments to be allowed to the various nations—how to persuade country A that it should not have such large armaments as country B. To solve this problem we must take the present strength of armaments as a standard, or divide the nations into certain categories and establish a maximum for each class, or endeavor to ascertain all elements of security and insecurity of vulnerability and strength, actual and potential, of each nation and allot armaments accordingly."

Lord Cecil said that the new preparatory conference for a disarmament conference, on which the United States will be invited, is at will be organized almost immediately.

"If and when this commission has arrived at a basis for the solution of these problems, or perhaps at a provisional solution of them," he said, "then, according to the idea of the last assembly of the league, a conference shall be called of all the nations concerned."

MEDINA CAPTURED; ARABIAN KING FLEES

Desert Chieftain Now Supreme in Hedjaz and Has Chance at Caliphate.

Special Cable to Post-Dispatch and New York World.

JERUSALEM, Dec. 11.—The second most holy Moslem city, Medina, has been captured by Sultan Ibn Saud, ruler of the Wahabias, according to a reliable report today. King Ali of the Hedjaz has been forced to flee with his depleted forces to Jeddah where a British cruiser offers him protection.

Saud for months has been in possession of Mecca, the loss of which sent former King Hussein into exile and elevated his son, Ali, to the throne.

The end of the long siege of Medina makes the erstwhile unrecognized desert chieftain the most powerful factor in Arabian affairs. The Sultan's victory sounds the death knell of the Hashimite family, which was Saud's purpose, although two of Hussein's sons still have thrones, Faisal in Iraq and Abdullah in Transjordan, both under British protection.

But with Hussein who proclaimed himself Caliph in 1924, an exile in Cyprus and his eldest son defeated, the British are coming to terms with Saud. They have just signed a treaty delimiting the frontiers of Hedjaz with Iraq and Transjordan.

Saud probably aspires to the Caliphate, but he is aware that his reputation among all Moslems, as a heretic, is an obstacle to his calling Islamic leaders to a conference in Mecca to name a Caliph. Meantime he is guaranteeing the safety of pilgrims to Mecca.

He controls the Hedjaz desert railway from Damascus to Medina, built especially for pilgrims, and if he can assure Islam of his piety and King Fuad of Egypt does not press claims for the Caliphate, the Sultan may realize his ambition.

KATO THINKS TIME IS NOT RIPE FOR ARMS CONFERENCE
Japanese Premier Believes Russia Would Stay Out and Some Other Countries Are Not Ready.

TOKIO, Dec. 11.—Premier Kato today discussed with the Associated Press the subjects of disarmament, sovietism, America and China, and declared Japan gladly would participate in any legitimate disarmament conference, but he believed the time was not ripe at present for such a conference to prove successful.

The Premier did not believe that Russia would enter such a conference and he also said he feared that certain European countries were not yet ready. The Premier said Japan wanted the United States to participate in any such conference called.

So far as any further Japanese-American war was concerned, Premier Kato declared it to be an absurdity and physically impracticable. He was sure Japan never would resort to war over immigration.

The Premier declared that the present policy of noninterference in Manchuria would be continued and that no more Japanese troops would be sent there unless necessary. He said that about 5000 railway guards were moving toward Manchuria, the forces being below normal owing to the conscripts' term ending. He added that replacements would bring the forces to approximately 7000, which is considered sufficient.

Regarding increasing soviet influence throughout China, the Japanese Premier said the evidence pointed both ways and that the conditions at present were uncertain.

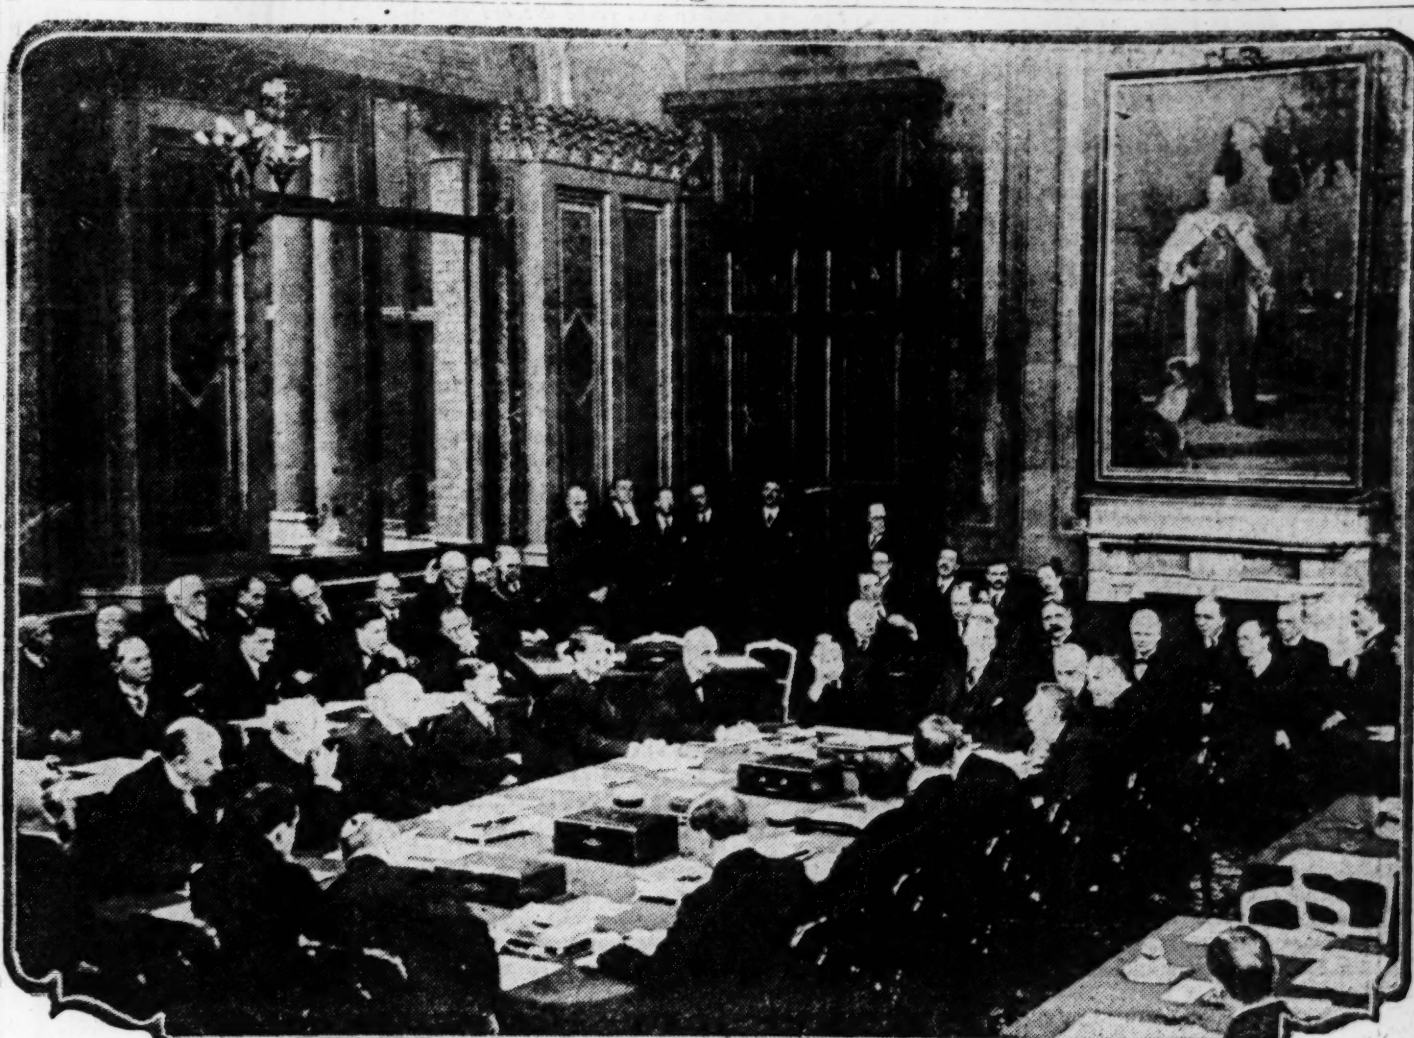

The morning editions of the Chus Shinbun, and other newspapers were suppressed by the Government today for alleged inflammatory editorials attacking the Government's attitude in Manchuria and urging the sending of additional troops.

RIFF PEACE TERMS REPORTED
By the Associated Press.

THIS photograph was made in the historic Council Chamber of the British Foreign Office when the Locarno security treaty and collateral guarantee and arbitration treaties were signed Dec. 1 by representatives of Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium, Italy and Poland. M. Briand, French Premier, was addressing the signatories at the time. At the head of the table are Stanley Baldwin, British Premier, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Minister. At the right are the French delegates. At the left at the lower part of the table are Chancellor Luther and Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany.

INHUMAN TERRORISM IN ALL BALKAN STATES, AUTHOR SAYS

Barbousse, Returning From Rumania, Says Convictions Were Unwarranted.

VIENNA, Dec. 11.—All the Balkan states, including Hungary, are given up to inhuman terrorism to the shame of Christian humanity, said Henri Barbousse, a French author, on his return here from a private mission to Rumania to investigate the recent trial at Tatar-Bunar of alleged revolutionaries.

M. Barbousse in a speech at a public meeting charged that the Rumanian Government had been unable to produce documentary proofs that the revolutionaries had acted under instructions from Moscow. He said Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, had the appearance of a graveyard. Any man there giving information concerning prevailing conditions, he added, risked death.

A dispatch from Bucharest Dec. 3 said a secret military tribunal at Shishina, Rumania, had pronounced sentences against 33 Bessarabian peasants accused of having participated in the raiding of a Tatar-Bunar. Sentences ranging from two to 20 years were imposed on those convicted.

AUSTRALIAN LABOR MEN WIN APPEAL AGAINST DEPORTATION

Officers of Seamen's Union to Sue Government for Damages—Their Case Was Issue in Election.

MELBOURNE, Dec. 11.—The high court today upheld the appeal of Tom Walsh and Jacob Johannessen, president and secretary of the Australian Seamen's Union against the deportation order of the Australian Government, and assessed the costs of the action against the Crown. Both men were deported on Nov. 29 under an order from the deportation board appointed by the Australian Government.

The men were prominently associated with the recent strike of British seamen and have been identified with industrial disputes for many years. Their deportation was the most discussed question in the campaign preceding the recent Australian elections.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The demand of the railway companies for a general reduction in wages and a counter-claim of their workers for higher pay have been adjudicated by the National Wages Board. Its report calls for a virtual maintenance of the status quo. Small concessions, however, have been made to the railway companies. A director of one of the large companies said the railways would accept the award under protest.

Girl Queen Ank Disclosed In Valiant Effort to Save Throne After Death of Tut

Egyptian Research Bares Page of Intrigue—High Priest Ay Thwarted Widow and Assumed Crown Himself.

By JOHN L. BALDWIN, (Copyright 1925.)

LUXOR, Egypt, Dec. 11.—Queen Ank, whose history was unknown three years ago, will henceforth take her place among the romantic crowned women of history, beside Cleopatra and Semiramis. This is one of the results of Howard Carter's excavations this year in the Valley of the Kings.

Ank was the widow of King Tut, and worthy to rank with the great queens of history. If anybody thinks that statement nonsense, let him come out here and look, and he will lose his heart to her. Poor little Tutankhamen, they have at last stripped the boy's emaciated carcass of the gold and jewels and regalia, with which his girl widow loaded his body.

That last garland on his brow that she wrote poet haste to the King of the Hittites. "Send me a son of thine and he shall marry me and I will make him King over Egypt."

Story on Clay Tablets. The story has been told by the clay tablets found in the ruins of the Hittite capital; how the King hesitated, replied asking details, the widow despairingly told him to hurry, and the opportunity passed. Ay, the old high priest of the heretic King Akhnaton, seized the throne, and nobody knows what happened to Tut's Queen. Ankessenamun, who has been seen by the Tutankhamen treasures to know that the inspired artists who depicted the little Queen anointing her husband with perfume, or fanning him, or handing him an arrow as she points with girlish excitement at a fat bird that flies to escape the royal bow, have added a new legend to the stories of dead queens that the world will not let die.

Future generations will wonder and speculate about Ankessenamun, and perhaps give her a name for short—just Ank would do, her real name, without dragging in the god Amen.

During the past month, before a crowd of minor Egyptian officials gazing ignorantly, Carter has been adding new and remarkable facts and speculations out of which will grow the legend of Queen Ank. Before the Tut tomb was emptied two or three years hence we may know all about her. But so far there have been no manuscripts or sacred texts.

Girl Queen's Venture. This much can be said now, that since the experts who unwrapped Tut say he was 15 or 16 when he died, his Queen—the pictures support this—can hardly have been older. What a scene this one fact conjures up—a girl of perhaps 15 risking her life, perhaps losing it, in an effort to hold her crown by importing an alien Pharaoh from the great Asiatic Empire with whom the mighty Kings of her claimed every Pharaoh. What was the reason? Not revenge or spite, since Tut's tomb was made an Aladdin's Cave of treasure.

King Ay a Shadowy Figure. Clearly, Ay found it necessary to get himself proclaimed Pharaoh at once, and this could not be done until Tut had been buried. Queen Ank's strangely preserved letters to the Hittite King supply the motive. It Ay got wind of the child queen's plot, he must act and act quickly. For Tut's claim to the throne was derived from his wife.

The tomb may yet tell more, but up to now nobody has the faintest idea who Tut was. In Egypt a claim to the throne could come through a woman, and Ank was the daughter of Akhnaton, himself the son of Amenhotep, the Magnificent. It must have been as Ank's husband alone that Tut had any right to the crown. So Ay buried Tut as fast as he could and became Pharaoh himself.

This Ay is, indeed, a shadowy figure. He died and was buried in the only other sarcophagus known like Tut's, with four goddesses sculptured on its corners, their wings enfolding the great casket. Half of it has been found. Tomb robbers, instead of carefully dismantling Ay's shrine, as Carter did Tut's, seem to have broken through them and knocked out one side of the sarcophagus to get at the loot inside. Nothing else is known about Ay's reign.

Then came Horemheb, the all-powerful General of three successive Kings, Akhnaton, Tut and Ay. He made himself Pharaoh and later expunged the reigns of Tut and Ay from the records, dating his own first year from what was really Tut's.

Destroyed the Statues. This fact, the experts think, explains why Tut's tomb was not sought for in the period of anarchy three dynasties later, for he plundered like those of all the other Pharaohs. Horemheb was King from 1350 to 1332 B. C., and when he died he had destroyed or buried every statue of Tut and Ay, and defaced all their inscriptions.

By the time Paris carried Helen off to Troy, probably no Egyptians excepting a few old bookworm priests in temples knew there even had been a Pharaoh named Tutankhamen, still less a little girl named Ankessenamun, who may have loved her boy husband, but who kept her eye fixed on the main chance.

Had Tut's burial in the valley been remembered 400 years after, Carter and Lord Carnarvon would have found, not a museum that restores to the world a whole vanished civilization, but empty chambers and a vacant sarcophagus.

HARRISBURG, Ill., Dec. 11.—Frank L. Smith of Dwight, candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States senate in opposition to Senator William B. McKinley, attacked the World Court in addresses yesterday, opening his campaign in southern Illinois.

Smith referred to the World Court as "a lodge of the League of Nations," which, he said, has been repudiated by the people.

By the Associated Press.
TEHERAN, Persia, Dec. 11.—The rise to power of Reza Khan Pehlevi, Persia's dictator, will have its final triumph Dec. 14, when he will be officially enthroned as Shah of Persia.

Reza Khan replaces Ahmed Kajar, who was deposed by the National Assembly Oct. 21.

From hostler in the stables of the Cossacks to Shah of Persia has been the rise of Reza Khan Pehlevi. From tender of the horses Reza joined the Cossacks and in 1921 led the revolt which culminated in the overthrow of the Government, the deposition of the Shah and his assumption of role of dictator.

Meanwhile Ahmed Kajar, the 27-year-old deposed monarch, is in France, moving frequently between Paris and the Riviera, and declaring that he still remains the ruler of Persia.

"I am, and I remain the legitimate and constitutional sovereign of Persia," he declares, "and I await the hour to return to my country to continue to serve my people."

Strategy and Statecraft.

Reza, despite his humble origin, is possessed of both strategy and statecraft. As soon as he became Premier and Minister of War—in other words, dictator—he began the reorganization of the country. At first he desired a republic, but he was thwarted by the opposition of the priests. Then when the National Assembly late in October proclaimed the deposition of the Kajar dynasty, Reza is said to have immediately set his heart on ascending the throne.

He brought about unification of the unruly tribes in a single entity and raised an army of 40,000 men. He saw that they were paid, fed and clothed, thus inspiring to himself their loyalty when needed. Personal courage was said to have aided him materially in holding his troops in hand. When in 1921 the Khorassan tribes rebelled Reza is declared to have gone into the rebel camp, killed the leader and put down the rebellion. Other recalcitrant chieftains and their tribes also obtained short shrift at the hands of Reza and his men, who are equipped like any other modern army, having tanks, airplanes, wireless stations.

Can Only Sign His Name.

The Persian Parliament, known as the National Consultative Assembly, has been retained by Reza to carry out his will in the manner of a constitutional regime. It is this body which it is believed has sanctioned his elevation to the throne.

The new ruler had little chance during his childhood to obtain even an elementary education, and it has been rumored that as far as writting is concerned he is able only to sign his name.

HINDENBURG ASSURED OF A COALITION MINISTRY

All Parties Comprising Proposed Cabinet Prepared to Begin Negotiations.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Dec. 11.—All the parties comprised in the projected coalition have notified President von Hindenburg of their readiness to enter into negotiations for the formation of a coalition cabinet, with whomsoever the President selects as Chancellor.

It is generally assumed that this will be Dr. Hans Luther, head of the Government which resigned a few days ago, and that he will be able to reconcile the differences between the Socialists and the People's Party.

The points on which the Socialists require to be satisfied are that the Cabinet shall without ambiguity defend the Republican Constitution against any attempt to restore the monarchy, that the Washington agreement shall be fulfilled, that unemployment relief must be regulated according to Socialist plans, that taxes on property remain unaltered and Germany join the League of Nations as quickly as possible.

CHILDREN GET LESSON ON NATURE IN MUSIC

Ganz and Orchestra Illustrate Imitative and Impressionist Interpretations.

The influence of nature in music was exemplified by a program presented yesterday afternoon at the concert by Conductor Ganz and his Symphony Orchestra to a large and appreciative juvenile audience. It was the second concert of the second children's series.

Ganz began with an explanation that there are two ways of representing nature—imitative and impressionist. Perhaps the younger children did not digest that all at once, but it was evident that their attention ran to the second sort. To illustrate the imitative, "Fingals" by, for example, they responded with a silent restlessness; to the "Rustle of Spring," with a murmur, unphrased; and to the sylvan bird-song, with a "Siegfried," with the attention of youth caught in wonder at the youth of all ages.

On the other hand, the rather more representation of a donkey, Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," or Rimsky-Korsakov's "The Bells," and Saint-Saëns' "The Carnival of the Animals," and the "Danse Macabre," which amused giggles.

Incidentally, Ganz was enough impressed with the children's response to the number to play Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" as an encore, explaining that the latter is a gentler view of spring.

There was harmony between orchestra and audience that is often lacking at the grown-up symphony concerts. Feet shifted at the hearing of Beethoven's "Pastorale symphony," and small hands clapped programs rather tightly at the fortissimo of the storm in the work.

MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" showed a series of vigorous kicks from one middle-aged girl; and the string call to arms at the end of the "William Tell" overture, which concluded the program, was worked out for nearly everybody.

The children sang the Barcarole from Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffmann" and Gruber's arrangement of "Hail, Holy Night," with accompaniment. The lights of the auditorium were dimmed for the latter number.

The audience was composed not only of children from St. Louis primary schools, but also of contingents from St. Louis County and Illinois.

Since his brilliant performance in Pennsylvania game he has been the victim of a kind of conspiracy of get-rich-quick promoters who did not care how far in prostituting him to their ends, and robbing him of his integrity.

He said yesterday that a close friend of his was going to be an actor. If ever a fellow friend, it is Grange. For he is about helplessly in a sea of green and gold publicity, which he has never experienced to navigate. He will be lucky if he escapes with his feet and finds a chance to earn his living.

Wales Addresses Conference.
LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Prince of Wales was the guest of honor at the Argentine club last night, his first public appearance since the death of the Queen Mother Alexandra. Three hundred British and Argentine welcomed him back from his trip to South America.

The Prince's speech was interspersed with phrases of Argentine Spanish and his face wore a kind of bashful smile as he carefully pronounced the words. He declared that the Argentine people had received in Argentina bound him to that nation with more than ties of friendship.

The Neaira, owned by Charles A. Gould, has been in the basin nine years; the Eirena, owned by Henry Darlington Jr., seven years; the Flying Fox, owned by Dr. John A. Harris, three years. The Hironelle, once the palatial boat of the Prince of Monaco, later the property of a film company, the last two years has stood idle.

Built mainly between 1893 and 1909, these craft, which it appears have outlived their usefulness, would cost an average of nearly $1,000,000 each if built today. Most of them are steam yachts.

Port authorities say, however, that the principal cause of the abandonment is the cost of manning and operating the cumbersome crafts.

WAR LESS HEROIC THAN PEACE, CLEMENCEAU SAYS IN BOOK

Statesman Compares French Situation to Ancient Greece in Installation of "Demosthenes."

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, December 10. PARIS, Dec. 11.—Today's L'Illustration, the most important French illustrated weekly, prints the first installment of Georges Clemenceau's book, "Demosthenes," which will be published shortly.

The aged statesman has just finished the first of a series of books on the statesmen of ancient Greece and Rome. Clemenceau, who on Sept. 29 entered his eighty-fifth year of life, has not lost any of his wonderful vitality. His physician states that he is so fit physically as well as mentally that he could still carry on the affairs of state.

The "Tiger," however, made up his mind to keep away from party politics and devote the rest of his life to study. "Demosthenes" is unanimously considered a masterpiece. On practically every page Clemenceau's caustic spirit bursts out and he criticizes pitilessly contemporary statesmen, as well as all his countrymen, comparing the state of affairs in ancient Greece to the present situation in France.

"Demosthenes could have saved Athens, if Athens had consented to be saved," says Clemenceau. "The salvation of each country is in its own hands. It is not enough for a nation to have shown wonderful courage in war. Social life in peace time demands more heroic manifestations."

"All nations can find sufficient energy to put up a glorious fight. Few, however, have the strength to continue the effort when they meet the difficulties of peace time."

NATIONAL MEETING OF LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS IN ST. LOUIS

Arrangements for Session in April Completed—World Court Adherence an Issue.

Arrangements were made yesterday at a conference between national and regional officers of the organization for holding of the national convention of the League of Women Voters here at Hotel Statler the week of April 14.

One item of discussion aside from the plans for the convention, was the adherence to the World Court by action of the United States Senate. Miss Ruth Morgan, vice president of the league and head of the department of International Co-Operation to Prevent War, said that a poll of the Senate showed 66 Senators positively in favor of it, two more than the necessary two-thirds majority.

Mrs. George Gellhorn, Mrs. Roscoe Anderson and Mrs. Virgil Loeb of St. Louis and Miss Elizabeth J. Hauser, secretary of the league, Girard, O.; Miss Morgan of New York, and Mrs. Lucia St. Clair Moss of Columbia, Mo., and Mrs. Charles H. Dietrich of Hastings, Neb., attended the conference.

HIGHWAY ENGINEERS TO MEET IN KANSAS CITY FEB. 10

Motor Trails in U. S. and $60,000,000 Missouri Road System to Be Chief Topics.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Dec. 11.—Motor trails throughout the nation and the new $60,000,000 Missouri highway system will be chief topics at the annual meeting of the Highway Engineers' Association of Missouri, to be held at Kansas City, Feb. 10, 11 and 12. Arrangements for the convention are being made by Carl W. Brown, assistant chief engineer of the State Highway Department here, and secretary of the organization.

Preliminary plans indicate the meeting will be the largest and most attractive ever held by the association, according to Brown. Discussion of road and highway bridge construction will be had and a number of entertainment features will be on the program.

E. W. James of the Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address, and B. H. Piepmeyer, chief engineer of the Missouri Highway Department, will also be a principal speaker.

A dinner will be given on the closing day of the convention. The Kansas City Automobile Show, opening on that date, will be visited by the several hundred highway engineers and road building experts expected at the meeting. A motor trip is also being planned, with a possible trip to nearby highway construction work in Missouri, and perhaps Kansas.

Subjects of special interest to county highway engineers will be discussed, according to Brown, and it is possible an attempt will be made to secure a united effort for better road work on the part of County Courts. Another possible topic may be the reorganization of county road forces by reducing the number of road overseers to permit the establishment of better maintenance forces. Such action has already been taken in a number of counties, according to reports, and has proven successful.

CARNEGIE FUND IS $27,000,000
Institution to Continue Research Work With Monkey Colony.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Carnegie Institution of Washington has received an additional gift of $5,787,000 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, and its endowment will be brought up to $27,000,000.

Important research work for the next year outlined today by Dr. J. C. Merriam, president of the institution, includes extension into the study of the origin of human behavior, with a colony of monkeys under observation for their nerve reactions under various conditions.

Gives Y. W. C. A. $1,000,000.
CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—A gift of $1,000,000 by Cyrus H. McCormick and his sons, Cyrus Jr. and Gordon, to the Young Women's Christian Association, in memory of McCormick's wife, is announced. The money will be used to construct a residence hall for women and girls.

Driver of Stolen Car Escapes.
Motorcycle Policemen, Compton and Watta, in a department automobile, yesterday halted a young man who failed to signal before turning left from Grand boulevard into Halliday avenue. He jumped from his machine and ran east to Arkansas avenue and south to Arsenal street, escaping. The automobile proved to be the property of Mrs. Edna Singleton of 4162 Shenandoah avenue, stolen a short time before while parked at Grand and Lindell boulevards.

ARCHITECT'S WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE AND CUSTODY OF SON

Mrs. Guy Study, Wed in Paris in 1910, Charges Intolerable Situation at Home.
A petition for divorce, filed last Tuesday by Mrs. George Study, of 4608 McPherson avenue, against her husband, Guy Study, of Study & Farrar, architects, in the Arcade Building, will be heard next Wednesday before Circuit Judge Feary of the Court of Domestic Relations.
Mrs. Study alleges her husband deserted her in April, 1924, and complained further he created conditions during their married life that were intolerable. She asks the custody of their son, Lomax, 10, and sufficient alimony for his support. They were married in Paris in 1910, the petition states.
Study has filed an answer denying the allegations of his wife's petition.

ROBBER'S PLAN IS CAT'S MEOW BUT IT DOES HIM NO GOOD

"Come In, Kitty," Invites Restaurant Owner After Noise at Door, and Then Routs Invader.
"Come on in, kitty," was the invitation inadvertently extended last night to a masked but unarmed robber by Thomas Pandaris as he unlocked a rear door of his restaurant at 2416 North Broadway, after hearing a "meow" and scratching on the door.
"Give me your money," was the reply of the robber as he entered. However, Pandaris replied by striking the robber sharply on the knuckles with a screw driver he had picked up and the man fled.

FARM BUREAU CONFERENCE

Delegates to Be Guests of St. Charles Business Men Jan. 4.
The St. Charles County Farm Bureau will hold its second annual Clover and Prosperity conference in St. Charles, Jan. 4. Eighty-four delegates from the several districts in the county, interested in the improvement of agricultural conditions in the county at large, are to be guests of St. Charles business men at a noon luncheon. The conference, as explained by County Agent Langenbacher, is to foster greater interest in soil improvement generally.
C. E. Carter of the Crops Department, and George Schwenker of the Department of Soils, College of Agriculture, Columbia, Mo., will be speakers at the meeting. They will answer questions relative to soil improvement.

Section Worker Killed by Train.
Thomas Taylor, 55 years old, of 715 Morin avenue, a railroad section laborer, was killed early today when struck by a string of freight cars being switched in the Rock Island's Carle avenue yard. Alfred Trotter, a switchman, said he was riding the end car and shouted a warning to Taylor before he was hit.

Witness at Trial of Holler and Voight Tells of Methods of Oriental University.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
20-23 Wyatt Building.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Further spirit operation of the Oriental University, here and more names of graduates of its medical college, which had no classes, were brought to light at the trial of Helmut P. Holler, dean of the school, and Dr. Ralph A. Voight, yesterday. They are charged with conspiracy to use the mails to defraud.
Medical diplomas that cost $100 each and for which no oil lamp was burned, were laid on the table in the Federal District Court, along with the names of deceased educators whom Holler had made patrons of his institution by going into a trance and calling upon them in spirit land.
Oriental's chemical laboratory, evidence introduced showed, was mere ozone, and its zoology collection was no more than that of any old building. Mice were about the only things that took courses in the university.
The matriculation card of one graduate in philosophy, under the heading, "Where formerly studied," read, "Around the sun in an airplane."
President George F. Zook of Akron (O.) University, formerly specialist in the Federal Bureau of Education, was called as a witness.
He testified that Holler twisted Government correspondence to trick people.

Trick Correspondence.
In reply to an inquiry from a man in Cuba while he was in the Government service, Dr. Zook wrote:

"Oriental University is chartered under the laws of the State of Virginia and is authorized to confer degrees. As far as this office (the Government Bureau of Education) has information, however, no standard college or university in the United States recognizes its degrees, which are conferred for work done wholly by correspondence and upon the payment of a considerable fee. The institution advertises extensively in foreign countries and this office has received many complaints concerning its practices by persons who have registered in its courses. The Bureau of Education has been led to suspect that the institution is doing a fraudulent business and negotiations with the State of Virginia are now under way for the purpose of canceling of the institution's charter." Holler secured this letter and in a pamphlet headed "The Legal and Academic Status of Oriental University," used the first paragraph.
"Oriental University is chartered
under the laws of the State of Virginia and is authorized to confer degrees." The rest of the letter was not used and following this mere sentence was printed, "Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education, signed George F. Zook, specialist in higher education." The name "Zook" was used instead of Zook.

Another Letter Deleted.
A second letter which Zook wrote in reply to an inquiry from Germany was used by Holler in the pamphlet with the heading of the Department of the Interior. Two paragraphs were quoted that inasmuch as the university was legally incorporated its degrees were legal and that there was no law in the country concerning the recognition of persons appointed as professors in colleges and universities, so that an institution could confer such a title.
The following part of the same letter, however, was omitted:

"I may say, however, that the title of Professor applied to a person connected with Oriental university would in no way add to his prestige but would rather be a handicap and discredit to him."
"The bureau of education is in possession of information which indicates that the Oriental university is conferring degrees either upon the presentation of a thesis and a fee, or upon the presentation of a fee only. We are now engaged in collecting evidence that may be acceptable to a court of law for the purpose of proving the Oriental university guilty of fraud."

HELGOLAND AN ISLE OF PEACE

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Helgoland, Germany's former naval base, is an ill but forgotten isle of peace.
Its 2500 inhabitants live in a manner all their own. They pay no taxes; there is no customs wall.
Therefore, living is extremely cheap except for water. That is dear.
There is not a spring or a well on the island and every drop of water has to be brought from the mainland. There are 10 horses on the island and almost no dogs and cats —they would drink too much water. The chief source of income is the sale of postcards. A great many of the population is beachcombing. In the tiny harbor small vessels, always under steam, stand waiting to go to the help of some boat in distress.

Fishing is the occupation of a few. Although Helgoland has the best winter climate in North Europe visitors go there only in summer. It is planned to erect a first-class gambling casino. The inhabitants live in tiny, toylike houses and have little to do. Their speech is a German-Dutch dialect. But doomed! Little by little it is being eaten away by the waves. If it would visit Helgoland he should hasten. Geologists have calculated it has only about 2000 years more to live.

FIVE YEARS FOR PART IN ROBBING PAIR IN PARK

James Dye Sentenced by Jury—He and Another Held Up Woman and Escort.

Five years in the penitentiary on a charge of first degree robbery was the punishment fixed by a jury yesterday in Circuit Judge Frey's Court for James Dye, 23 years old, who gave his address as 1902 Bacon street.
Dye and Charles Kimes, also of the Bacon street address, were charged with having held up Miss Grace Polette, 2437 Texas avenue, and her escort, Fred Geisler, 515 Newport avenue, Webster Groves, on June 25 last, as they were walking in O'Fallon Park. The robbers took jewelry valued at $150. Geis-ler identified Dye.

Kimes, jointly charged with the holdup, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary in Judge Frey's court two months ago.

COMMITTEE OF 45 TO MAKE STUDY OF USE OF TAXES

Representatives of All Business and Tax-Paying Groups to Be Named in Time for Meeting Jan. 21

ASSOCIATION FOR ECONOMY FORMED

Purpose Is Not to Benefit Any Section Alone but to Prevent Waste Anywhere in State.

An investigation or survey to ascertain if proper economy is being practiced in State, County and local government will be made by the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures, organized yesterday at a statewide conference at Hotel Jefferson.

An organization was effected providing for a general committee of 45 members, representing every business interest or group of taxpayers in the State, to be appointed by the various groups before Jan. 21, when a meeting will be held at Kansas City to elect officers, name an Executive Committee of seven, develop plans for the examination of governments, and set the machinery of the organization in motion.

About 150 delegates, from all parts of the State, accepted the invitation of the Associated Industries of Missouri, which called the conference for the purpose of forming such an organization. The plan outlined by Elmer Donnell, managing director of the Associated Industries, and James McQueeney of Kansas City, chairman of the Tax Committee of that body, was adopted with a few slight amendments.

Representation in Committee.
The general committee will consist of three representatives of agriculture, banks, the press, manufacturers, insurance organizations, mining, commercial organizations, civil organizations, home owners, labor, transportation, public utilities, Associated Industries, retailers, and wholesalers. The general committee will be empowered to fill any vacancies arising. Each group will select its original members.

"This is not a movement in the interest of any group, but for the benefit of all the people," Donnell explained. "Without the support of public sentiment, and the active support of the people, it will fail."

The proposition is not a reduction of taxes in St. Louis, Kansas City or anywhere else. It is to place Government on a business basis. It is not a criticism of the State administration or any State officer. Our State officers are following precedent, and they will continue to do so until the people take a hand. The same applies to county and municipal officers."

The delegates were welcomed by Harry Scullin of St. Louis, president of the Associated Industries, who said State and local Governments were spending money as in wartime, though business incomes were no longer on the wartime scale.

Would Reduce Farm Bureau.
William Hirth of Columbia, president of the Missouri Farmers' Association, advocated the abolition of "half the bureau and commissions in the State Government," and the election of State officials, "who are more interested in efficiency and economy than they are in their brothers-in-law." He charged that the teaching of vocational agriculture in the schools was not worth the expenditure required, since only 2000 students were enrolled for the course in all the schools in Missouri.

Some commissions should exist in the interest of economy. R. L. Wood of Springfield, president of the Missouri State Federation of Labor, said. He named three factors as vital in the consideration of economy in government: Equitable distribution of taxes, political patronage, which, he declared, is invariably misused, and a business-like, honest and efficient administration of government.

W. Frank Carter of St. Louis said that stupid economy was as much to be avoided as stupid expenditure. He spoke of "more business in government, and less government in business."

Other Speakers.
Others speakers were W. J. Dyar of Springfield, Edward H. Winter of Warrenton, president of the Missouri Press Association; Thomas Holland of St. Joseph; Frank Dillman of Caruthersville; John Malang of Joplin; Henry Miller, president of the St. Louis Terminal Association; E. L. Corbin of Jefferson City, field representative of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation; and Frank Porter of Kansas City.

A Resolutions Committee was appointed by Scullin. The members are Dyar, Dillman, Wood, Winter, Fred Naefer, Cape Girardeau publisher; Cornelius Roach of Kansas City; banker and Secretary of State; Al J. Crawford of Atlanta, president of the Missouri Farmers' Association; and Stephen B. Hunter of Cape Girardeau.

HOLY YEAR TO END CHRISTMAS EVE WITH SEALING OF DOOR

Governor of Rome Will Be in Procession That Follows Pope During St. Peter's Ceremony.

Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co., New York World and Post-Dispatch.
ROME, Dec. 11.—Holy Year will end definitely on Christmas Eve, the correspondent was informed at the Vatican today. However, Pope Plus has decided to extend indulgences outside Italy for six, nine or 12 months for those Catholics who can give just reasons why they were unable to perform their Holy Year duties on time. This is especially for those who could not make the journey to Rome.
The missionary exhibition will continue after Holy Year. The Vatican hints that this led to a false impression that the Pope meant to extend Holy Year.

At 3 p. m., Dec. 24, Pope Plus will don his sacred vestments in the Ducal Hall of the Vatican and enter St. Peter's. He will descend twice before he reaches the throne, once before the chapel of the sacrament and then before the chapel of confession.
From the throne he will receive the homage of the cardinals and canons. After vespers he will proceed to the Holy Door with a procession of cardinals and other high prelates. According to an old custom, long in abeyance, but which Premier Mussolini wishes revived, the Governor of Rome will be in the procession. All will carry lighted torches and His Holiness will have a lighted candle in his left hand.

Sand, lime, stone and bricks will be in readiness at the holy door and His Holiness, blessing the materials, will put on a linen apron and kneel on the step. The Grand Penitentiary will hand him a silver trowel and the pontiff will mix cement and place three stones in the doorway. The Grand Penitentiary will add another while the choir chants a special hymn. Workmen of the St. Peter's staff will complete the work of walling up the door, which will remain thus for 25 years, when the Pope will open it for the next Holy Year.

PROUD OF WOUNDS INFLECTED BY ROBBERS

John Noonan, Merchant, Exhibits Proof He Can't Be Bluffed by Holdup Men.

No holdup man with a revolver in his hand and a handkerchief tied over his face is going to bluff John Noonan, even if there is only $2 in the cash register.

Noonan's head is swathed in bandages today, but the pain is nothing beside the pleasure of telling his customers how he worsted two young fellows who selected his confectionery at 1210 Pendleton avenue for a holdup yesterday.

"I was alone in the back room about 4 p. m., reading my newspaper," Noonan relates. "I went out and there was one of them behind the counter with a revolver. The other was trying to bolt the door."

"Up with 'em!" said the man with the revolver. "I turned and called, 'Hey, Charlie! Come out here! It's a holdup.' I thought it would bluff them but they wouldn't be bluffing."

"Go on and shoot, you —," I said. "You're afraid to. You're yellow."

"He didn't shoot. I grabbed at him and he beat me on the head with his revolver. We rolled on the floor and punched, until finally he jumped up and ran out. Then the other fellow ran behind the counter and I rolled on the floor with him, until I got hold of a pop bottle and he got scared and ran out."

A physician treated three lacerations in Noonan's scalp but he is at work as usual today. He is 42 years old.

"They'll know better next time," he said.

WASHINGTON U. CANCELS ANNUAL CLASS BATTLE

Chancellor Hadley Holds Hearing Following Injury of Student in Pre-fight Clash.

Chancellor Hadley of Washington University canceled the annual class fight of the freshmen and sophomores, set for today, when it developed that students had violated an agreement not to disturb classes in advance of the fight. There was to have been a "bag rush" on Francis Field, starting at 4 p. m.

"The main business of a university is the conduct of classes," the chancellor said, in explanation of his attitude. It had been agreed that the rival classes would not keep each other from their recitations and lectures, but the enthusiasm went so far that members of both groups were kidnapped and kept away from their homes overnight and from the university by day, starting Wednesday.

Among those who were the presidents of the two classes, a woman saw the freshmen president bound and gagged, being carried into the county in an automobile Wednesday and caused a search by Deputy Sheriff, in the belief that this youth was a robbery victim. There are three freshmen to one sophomore, but the sophomores appear to have had the advantage of better organization.

POLICE GAME MANAGER AND ELEVEN AGENTS ARRESTED

Chief, Arriving to Warn Employees of Police, Admits Guilt and Shows Prizes About to Be Paid.

Detectives Sergeant Mulcahy and his gambling squad were interviewing 11 Negro representatives of the "Rube" and "Original Standard" policy games in a third-floor room at 3203 Lucas avenue last night, when a white man thrust his head in the door.

"Keep quiet in there," he ordered pettily. "There's cops in the block."

Everybody had a good laugh, including the visitor, who affably introduced himself as Harry Seese, 22 years old, of 2407 South Tenth street. He explained he was manager of the games and led the raiders to his office on the second floor, where there was $242 in cash, which he said was ready to be paid out as prizes.

He arrived in his automobile, he said, just as the police approached in their machine, but did not think they meant to call on him. Seese and the 11 Negroes were arrested.

WOMAN, 68, IS RUN DOWN BY TRUCK, SKULL BROKEN

Driver Arrested After Accident at Delmar Boulevard and Goodfellow Avenue.

Mrs. Maria Silliman, 68 years old, of 5806 Clemens avenue, suffered a fractured skull when struck by a Munger Laundry truck as she was crossing Delmar boulevard at Goodfellow avenue at 11 a. m. today. She was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Norman Gaskill, 7012 Jackson street, St. Louis County, driver of the truck, was arrested.

BRITAIN BOOSTS COAL SUBSIDY

LONDON, Dec. 11.—A supplementary estimate of £13,000,000 for the coal mining subsidy, making a total voted of £13,000,000 (£35,000,000), was adopted by the House of Commons last night.

Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, moving the vote explained that 30 per cent of the subsidy had gone directly to wages. Over the whole coal fields the mine owners were making scarcely any profit, he asserted, but were just able to keep themselves going.

ORDERS COFFIN MATERIAL FOR HIMSELF AND FAMILY

Texas Man Specifies Fir in Giving Business to Branch of Altos Lumber Firm.

C. P. Duprey of Palestine, Tex., has ordered material for three coffins from the Springman Lumber Co. of Altos.

The order came through George

Springman of the lumber firm, who operate a mill at Palestine. Duprey indicated he would have the material made into coffins for himself, his wife and an invalid daughter. One and a quarter inch fir is specified.

FINED $50 FOR DISTURBING THANKSGIVING SERVICE

Pastor of Mission said Defendant and Companion Quacked Like Ducks.

Allen Cordrey, 7903 Waters street, was fined $50 and costs in Judge Roseman's court today on a charge of disturbing public worship.

The Rev. Edward Skaggs, pastor of the House of Prayer Mission, 3543 Morganford Road, testified that on the evening of Nov. 26 Cordrey and a companion entered the mission while Thanksgiving service was in progress and began to quack like ducks, to the annoyance of worshippers. When he re-narrated, the Rev. Skaggs said, the two used obscene language, and finally one of them declared that it was time to "clean house." In the ensuing scuffle the Rev. Skaggs said he was made unconscious.

SYRIAN CHIEF SEEKS AUDIENCE WITH LEAGUE OF NATIONS

He is Told to Appear Before the Mandates Section Next Week With Plans for Intervention.

GENEVA, Dec. 11.—Jehan Djafer Bey, Syrian Druse representative, who has been seeking to obtain intervention by the League of Nations in his country, was told yesterday by representatives of the mandates section to appear before the Mandates Commission when it meets in Rome next week.

Djabir declared the situation was urgent and could not be delayed. Later he said he would renew his efforts to gain a hearing before the council through another avenue. Paul Boncour, the French delegate on the league council, has assured that body that Paris is making every effort to conciliate the Druses in Syria and will report fully to the March session of the council.

Other officers elected are: Louis A. Schulz, first vice president; George R. Fishwick, second vice president; John E. Nies, third vice president, and Paul H. Burg, treasurer. The officers will be installed Dec. 23, Theodore W. Fleming, retiring president, presided at the meeting.

COURT REPORTER, 81, RECORDS PROCEEDINGS TO PROVE SANITY

Sued by Daughters, James F. Allen Fights for Management of His $15,000 Estate.

Silent testimony of his sanity was offered today before Circuit Judge Hodgdon at Clayton, when James F. Allen, 81 years old, a court reporter for more than 40 years, recorded the testimony of two daughters, who sought to prove him of unsound mind and incapable of managing his affairs.

When the hearing opened, Allen rose and asked if he might take the testimony in shorthand as a test to prove his ability to manage his $15,000 estate. Judge Hodgdon granted his request.

The daughters, Mrs. Sylvia A. Henry of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Helen Harper of 1402 Summit avenue, East St. Louis, told of their father's dividing a tract of land into such small parcels that they could not be sold.

Circuit Judge McElhinney of Clayton testified that he had known Allen about 40 years, and that Allen had done court reporting in his court less than a year ago, has record being entirely satisfactory, and his memory good. Similar testimony was given by Hiram Moore, an attorney.

Allen lives with another daughter, Miss Mildred Allen, at Plant and Lockwood avenues, Webster Groves. The hearing was continued until Monday.

JAPANESE AND ARAB CREW FIGHT ON LINER IN STORM

British Steamer Makes Port at Honolulu for Insurance Survey of Damages.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 11.—The British steamship Woron limped into port yesterday for a Lloyd survey after a voyage marked by stormy seas and a crew fight aboard the ship. The fight occurred a week ago while the ship was bucking heavy seas. Three Japanese and four Arab sailors participated.

One of the Japanese was transferred to a hospital here when the vessel docked. His skull was fractured.

The Woron, which came here from Victoria, B. C., will be repaired here.

The Woron is a ship of 5200 tons and is owned by the Ornis Steamship Co., Limited. She was built in 1907.

SEVEN YEARS FOR STEALING $45

Negro One of Three Alleged to Have Robbed Dice Players.

Charles Pope, 25 years old, a Negro, living at 2712 Mills street, was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary yesterday in Circuit Judge Landwehr's Court on a charge of having stolen $45 from two participants in a dice game on Oct. 17 last.

Tellman Bell, 2625 Morgan street, and William Harvey, 2629 Lucas avenue, both Negroes, also charged with participation in the robbery, will be tried today. Alex Shelborn and Ernest Williamson, the alleged victims, were said to have been held up as they emerged from the game at 2629 Lucas avenue.

TWO MORE BEER BILLS INTRODUCED IN CONGRESS

Transfer of Enforcement to Department of Justice Proposed by Senator King of Utah.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Transfer of prohibition enforcement from the Internal Revenue

Bureau of the Treasury to the Department of Justice was proposed in a bill sponsored yesterday by Senator King (Dem.), Utah.

Light beer bills were introduced in the House by Representative

Vare (Rep.), Pennsylvania, and by Representative Perlman (Rep.), New York, a member of the Judiciary Committee, to which both measures, like their numerous predecessors, were referred.

Vare, in a statement, said this bill was introduced in the interest of law enforcement, declaring it was essential "that we have such an enforcement act as can be, as its name implies, an enforcement act."

ARGENTINE ASTRONOMER SAYS STARS SWELL AND BURST

Julius Hartmann Offers New Theory to Explain Mysterious Flashes in Heavens.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—The problem of the appearance of new stars which has disturbed astronomers for decades has been solved, it is claimed, by Julius Hartmann of the Astronomical Observatory in Argentina. Recently the Argentine Nachrichten of Kell received a telegram from Hartmann, reading:

"Nova problems solved. Stars swell and burst."

Hartmann is looked upon as a great authority, and his telegram means the solution of one of the interesting problems of modern astronomy, namely, why presumably existing but dark stars suddenly glare brilliantly and then sometimes disappear. Many theories have been advanced, but none was satisfactory. The most probable was that known as the Seliger theory, which was that a star coming into a zone of cosmic just became hard and luminous from friction.

Hartmann's theory is that atomic transformations occur within the stars whereby they suddenly swell and burst. His conclusions are based upon exact observation of the star Nova Pictoris, which appeared in the Southern sky some months ago. Germans believe that Hartmann has solved the problem.

Tone ranks first in Radio enjoyment

MERE reception is no longer the thrill. You can now have perfect reality in reproduction.

Kolster owners hear exactly what is broadcast as if they were in the studios. A Kolster neither adds to nor subtracts from broadcasting.

By unique improvements it receives and reproduces in a more perfect manner than heretofore. You hear all the subtle overtones, the delicate shadings.

A Kolster gives you music or speech just as the artist or speaker gives it in the studio.

To hear this instrument is to be amazed and delighted. Its reproduction is so lifelike, so vivid. You'll not be satisfied with a lesser instrument.

The above is Kolster model 6-B—a six tube set. Radio acoustically perfect reproduces. Space in cabinet for 8 batteries also for A batteries if dry cell tubes are used.

New Simplicity

No dials—another great advancement. Simply turn from station to station. Only one regulator. So simple a child can "play" a Kolster.

See and hear this remarkable instrument. A demonstration in your own home or at a Kolster dealer's. There are five Kolster models—three six tube antenna sets and two eight tube loop sets. Each has exclusive Kolster features which insure perfection in tonal quality, selectivity, sensitivity and ease of operation. Every Kolster is fully guaranteed. De luxe, but not expensive.

EDISON THINKS WORLD LAGS BEHIND INVENTIVE GENIUS

Refuses to Give Any Advice to Young Men Because They Won't Take It.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, has concluded the world can get along without more inventions until general intelligence catches up with those it now has, according to an interview published today in Popular Science Monthly.

He expressed faith in the rapid development of the chemical industry in this country and a belief that the United States soon will surpass Germany in this branch of science. The motion picture and phonograph he esteemed above all the others of his own inventions. He now is working on a storage battery and an improvement on the phonograph.

His lack of belief in the necessity of college education was related in the article which said that when asked for a bit of advice to young men, he replied: "Young men do not take advice."

Japan's Silk Export $425,000,000.

TOKIO, Dec. 11.—The Commerce and Industry Office estimates the gross total of raw silk to be exported this year at 420,000 bales valued at $50,000,000 yen ($425,000,000).

Up to November, raw silk exports aggregated 340,000 bales. Compared with the corresponding period of 1924, the above figures indicate an increase of 80,000 bales, worth 175,000,000 yen.

FEW OBEY TAX LAWS TO LETTER, MAYOR DECLARES

"Antiquated Statutes Should

Be Amended So as Not to Make Violator Out of Nearly Everyone."

IDEAS OF RUNNING

GOVERNMENT GIVEN

Addressing Republican

Women, He Says Many

City Departments Should Be Consolidated.

"There is scarcely a person who has not been indirectly guilty of violation of tax laws," Mayor Miller said in an address yesterday afternoon before the Republican

Women's Club, meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

"A great many of our tax laws were passed at a time when economie and business conditions were not as they are today," he said. "We are collecting taxes under a great many of these antiquated tax laws, and if the tax laws of this State were rigidly enforced, which is practically impossible, and if these laws were faithfully obeyed by the citizens, the whole structure of business would crumble immediately. There is scarcely a person who has not been indirectly guilty of violation of tax laws.

"Strictly speaking, if you have a ring on your finger worth $100, you should pay $2.57 each year as a tax for owning that ring. If you have $100 in a bank account or in your pocket you should pay $2.57 on it. If you have any municipal bonds you should pay $2.57 for each $100 par value of these bonds. If you have an automobile worth $1000, you should, in addition to all other taxes levied on this automobile, pay $25.70 per year for owning this car.

Few Comply With Laws.

"It is, I believe, safe to say that few, if any of the people of this city or any other city absolutely comply with our tax laws. These laws should be amended so as not to make a violator out of practically every citizen. However, like many other laws which have become antiquated instead of changing the laws to meet the demands of modern ideas and modern economic developments, the people gradually disobey them and the enforcement of such laws become lax. This has been true of many laws other than tax laws. There is also a feeling on the part of many people that to avoid a just payment of taxes is a wonderful accomplishment of wisdom, rather than looking upon it as a criminal offense."

On Running a Government.

After stating it was the desire of his administration not to restrict necessary activities of government, but to apply some fundamental business principles to government,

ernment never has been, is not now, and possibly never will be, managed in the same cold-blooded business manner as are great industrial institutions. The salaries paid public officials are insufficient to attract the average man to public

POST-DISPATCH CHRISTMAS

FUND HAS NO SOLICITORS

THERE are no collectors of contributions for the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival fund.

As in former years, subscription lists are being distributed by young women workers or sent by mail, with the request that they be prominently displayed. None of the young women will ask for, or receive, money.

When a list has served its purpose it is returned to the cashier of the Post-Dispatch by mail or messenger, or will be called for by a representative of the Post-Dispatch with written authority to receive and receipt for the list and money.
Donations also can be made in cash or by mail to the cashier of the Post-Dispatch. Acknowledgment will be made in the Post-Dispatch of every contribution accompanied by the donor's name, unless anonymity is requested.

LAFAYETTE-SOUTH SIDE BANK PROPOSES TO ACQUIRE STOCK

5000 Shares Would Be Distributed to Stockholders as 50 Per Cent Dividend Under Plan.

A proposition to double the capital stock of the Lafayette-South Side Bank by transferring $500,000 cash from surplus account and selling 5000 shares of stock for $200 a share, will be submitted to stockholders of the bank Feb. 26.
At present the capital stock of the bank consists of 10,000 shares of a par value of $100 each. The most recent bid for the stock was $155 a share, but none has been sold this year.

Under the proposed stock increase, $500,000 would be transferred from "surplus" to pay for 5000 of the new stock which would be distributed pro rata among the present stockholders as a 50 per cent stock dividend. The other 5000 new shares, to be sold for $200 each, would be offered first to the present stockholders.

A. C. F. Meyer is president of the bank, P. C. Hahn, first vice president, and J. L. Rheme, second vice president and cashier. The bank was organized in 1916 by a consolidation of two institutions. Its banking house is at 1781 South Broadway.

Aged Mail Carrier Again Held Up.
PITTSBURGH, Kan., Dec. 11.—L. W. Parker, aged mail messenger at Mulberry, Kan., 15 miles northeast of here, was held up yesterday by two men who escaped with his locked mail pouch, a sack containing newspapers and a parcel post package. Postmaster Washburn estimated the loss at $10. In January, 1924, robbers held Parker up as he was transferring mail from the depot to the postoffice and got about $1200.

ADVERTISMENT

Increase Your Weight in Thirty Days.

Ask Wolff-Wilson, Walgreen Drug Co., successors to Judge & Dolph Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co., or any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little are sugar coated and as pleasant to taste as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist is authorized to return your money if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days.

One thin woman gained 15 pounds in six weeks.

No more ask for McCoy's the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—40 Tablets—50 cents.

WORLD NEARING STABILIZATION, MELLON REPORTS

Only Optimistic View Can Be Taken of Future, Secretary of Treasury Tells Congress.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Early accomplishment of a complete world-wide economic stabilization is foreseen by Secretary Mellon.

Both at home and abroad, the Secretary declared in his annual report submitted to Congress yesterday, developments of the last year have been so satisfactory that "the way is now clear for a more complete world recovery." Mellon believed the underlying factors of the business situation here were fundamentally sound and "warrant optimism for future."

Reviewing the events which had influenced conditions for the better, he mentioned, with respect to the United States, restoration of confidence, tax reduction and reform, removal of various factors of uncertainty and instability, steady employment in farm and factory, and a generally augmented purchasing power.

Improvement Across Sea.

Across the seas he saw the improvement reflected by 11 foreign debt settlements here and a number of international funding arrangements, the return of a dozen nations to the gold standard, revival of industrial activity with its consequent employment, the reorganization of the currency systems of nearly all of the smaller Powers, and the promised benefits of the Locarno agreement. All of these, he said, lend support to the optimistic view regarding the economic rehabilitation of Europe.

Mellon suggested that the revision of taxes promised at this session of Congress was feeding new stimulus to business, but he entertained a complaint against exemptions proposed by the House Ways and Means Committee. These narrowed the foundation of the taxing system, he thought, declaring it should be broader if the tax problem were to be successful in times of depression as well as in days of prosperity.

About Over-Spending.

While the Secretary saw no approaching cloud on the economic sky, he warned against expansion and speculative tendencies. The program of public economy has had its effect, as has the public debt retirement program, he said, but "there is some tendency for the consuming public to buy every conceivable commodity on time and mortgage future earnings." On the other hand, he found business men conducting their affairs with restraint and caution in order that the prosperity may not bring on carelessness.

"It is hoped, furthermore," he added, "that the speculative tendency in real estate in some communities may not proceed to the point of undermining the spirit of caution in business."

Although Mellon was convinced that the promised tax reduction had added impetus to business plans, he counseled against too great a cut, declaring that some of the reductions advocated were dangerous and would lower the Treasury in new borrowings. He asserted that it was unwise for any nation not to reduce its outstanding obligations as rapidly as possible, and he regarded the good effects of the Treasury's program in this respect as having been fully demonstrated.

"The country is prosperous now and well able to liquidate its debt at a reasonable rate," he continued. "That will gradually reduce the tremendous interest charges. The perpetuation of a large public debt has never proved to be a sound policy. On the contrary, it has often been a great handicap in an emergency."

Prohibition Enforcement.

Mellon reviewed the department's work in enforcement of prohibition and expressed his belief that progress had been made in reducing the supply of illicit liquor through the reorganization directed by Assistant Secretary Andrews. He suggested that expansion of the Coast Guard was necessary if it were to continue efficient work in its dual capacity as a conservator of life and property and a guard against rum smuggling, and reiterated that the department's policy was to attack sources of supply rather than to attempt local police work.

With reference to funding of the foreign debt, Mellon reported "gratifying progress" and pointed to all the 21 arrangements under which $7,424,504,000 will be paid back to the United States. That leaves $4,939,555,000 on which no action has been taken, including the $4,210,000,000 marked up on the Treasury books against France. He hoped that other settlements would be concluded soon but did not name any of the Powers thus referred to. The Treasury, he said, was "mindful" of the condition of the Government's debtors and had granted liberal terms for the earlier years. The amounts were made up in later years in each instance, he added, because the obvious recuperative powers of the nations assured that they would be able to meet their commitments then.

Included in the Secretary's report was one by the American Debt Commission, of which he is chairman. That report made mention of the frequent press comment respecting refusal of the administration to sanction foreign loans here when the Powers seeking new money had not funded their debts to this Government.

"Early in 1925, after much consideration," the commission report said, "it was decided that it was contrary to the best interests of the United States to permit foreign Governments, which refused to adjust their debts to the United States to finance any portion of their requirements in this country. To the United States and States, municipalities and private enterprises within the country citizens."

concerned were included in the prohibition. Bankers consulting the State Department were notified that the Government objected to such financing. While the United States was loath to exert pressure by this means on any foreign government to settle its indebtedness, and while this country has every desire to see its surplus resources at work in the economic reconstruction and development of countries abroad, national interest demands that our resources be not permitted to flow into countries which do not honor their obligations to the United States and through the United States to its enterprises within the country citizens."

ST. LOUIS PICTURED AS BIG STEEL CENTER

Dormant Resources of District Exhibited in Showing of Coke-Making.

The dormant resources of the St. Louis district for the production of steel on a scale comparable to that of Pittsburgh were exhibited to the New Industries Committee of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce yesterday by the Granite City Commercial Club and officers of the Midland Coke & Iron Corporation, at whose plant a successful process for coking Illinois coal on a commercial scale was witnessed.

Representatives of 30 Southern Illinois cities, and Chicago and St. Louis business men interested in the steel industry, attended the meeting, a special train from Chicago bringing its delegation.

Not only was the district seen as a potential steel center, but the numerous by-products of the coking process may attract certain manufacturers of drugs and dyes. Harvey Hill, general secretary of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, pointed out, citing the transportation facilities afforded by railroads and waterways.

Looking into the future, Clarence Howard of St. Louis, president of the Commonwealth Steel Co., saw "steel mills literally covering the land between Granite City and Belleville." The Commonwealth company's annual $5,000,000 payroll indicated the possibilities, he said.

"All Elements Necessary." William G. McGuire, president of the Midland company, declared the district had all the elements necessary for the cheap production of steel, "coke, iron ore, an adequate market, and transportation."

"Using northern ore," he added, "we can produce a ton of iron at $1.50 less than they do at Gary, and if we use Missouri ore, we can do it $3.50 a ton cheaper. Compared with Pittsburgh, we have an $8.50 advantage in assembly charges for materials on every ton of pig iron produced."

"Ninety miles from here, in Missouri, we have a definite supply of iron ore. Besides that, we have in St. Louis the cheapest scrap iron market in the country."

Other speakers were Mayor R. E. Robertson, William Champion, president of the Granite City Commercial Club; M. D. Curran of St. Louis, Leonard Busby of Chicago, Breckenridge Jones of St. Louis, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.; Edward Goette, director of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, East St. Louis; C. A. Boers, president of the Chicago and Savings Bank, Rock Island; W. E. Fuller, superintendent of the Burlington railroad, Galesburg; John G. Learned, vice president of the Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois, Chicago; Mayor A. C. Gauen of Collinsville, W. E. Coudy of Granite City, and Scott Brown, of Chicago, chairman of the New Industries Committee.

DAWES SAYS HE ENJOYED HAZING SPEECH OF HARRISON

It Was Good Humored, and, as Far as I Could See, in Good Taste," He Declares.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Vice President Dawes got the first installment yesterday of the Senate's reprisal for his campaign to force that body to change its rules so as to make filibusters impossible. Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi was chosen for the job and he did it with all the irony at his disposal, while the Vice President was in the chair.

It must be said, for the Vice President that he took the dose like a good sport. Nobody laughed more heartily than he when Harrison gazed him for the statement in his Chicago speech that he was "a dangerous man," and even Harrison's "mule that mistook the attention he attracted for applause did not drive the grin from Dawes' face."

When it was all over and he was asked how he liked the first Senate comeback, he said: "I enjoyed it very much. It was good humored and, as far as I can see, in good taste."

For nearly an hour Harrison kept it up, his words as cutting as he could make them and his manner as deferential as could be. Word had been passed around that the Vice President was to be broiled and all the Senators were there.

DENIES WALL ST. DICTATES BELGIUM'S INTERNAL POLICY
By the Associated Press.
BRUSSELS, Dec. 11.—Minister of Finance Janssen, yesterday denied that Belgium had abdicated any of its sovereign rights in the arrangement with American bankers for a loan to stabilize the Belgian franc. Recently, statements were made in Brussels that Wall Street was dictating the Belgian domestic financial policy, and at a meeting of the Chamber of Deputies, inquiry was made as to whether the Government was acting under pressure from American and London bankers in cutting its budget expenses.

TOWN SHUNS POOR FILM
Warning of Iowa Manager Reflected in Lighter Attendance.
By the Associated Press.
SHENANDOAH, Ia., Dec. 11.—A checkup on attendance of a moving picture theater here after its owner, C. J. Latta, advertised a warning to patrons that the feature picture was "one of the weakest" he had seen, disclosed that at least 400 patrons stayed away.
Ordinarily 500 attend each night, but despite Latta's warning that he did not want to obtain money under false pretenses as the picture was not so good as the advance notices had indicated, 100 persons were present. He did this as a policy of honest advertising, he said, expressing the belief that his plan would pay in the long run.

CHARGE OF MURDER AGAINST EX-JAILER, WHO KILLED WIFE

John McCully indicted on Testimony of Two Sons—Life Imprisonment Possible.
An indictment charging second degree murder has been returned against John McCully, 50 years old, former City Jailer, for the killing Nov. 23, last, of his wife, Jeanette, 32, in their furnished rooms at 2768 Cherokee street. Punishment may be imprisonment in the penitentiary from 10 years to life.
The testimony on which the indictment is based was given by McCully's two sons, Richard, 12, and Charles, 10. At the Coroner's inquest they related that their father had deliberately shot his wife after a quarrel.
McCully has told police the shooting was an accident, stating that he was flourishing the revolver to prevent his wife from leaving their home when it was accidentally discharged. He said he had upbraided her for reading "The Encyclopedia of Love," which, he declared, was unfit to read.

NEW REGULAR ARMY POST FOR LIEUT. COL. A. E. DEITSCH

He Recently Resigned as Commander and Instructor of National Guard Here.
Lieutenant Colonel A. E. Deitsch, who recently resigned as commander and instructor of the 138th Infantry, National Guard, with headquarters here, has been assigned to command a battalion of the Second Regular Infantry Regiment, stationed at Detroit, Mich. It was announced today.
Col. Deitsch, who came here as instructor of the 138th Regiment in 1921, and who was subsequently elected commander of the organization, resigned several months ago, declaring he was unable to "overcome the apathy toward National Guard activities here." Col. Deitsch will assume his new post next week. It is expected that his successor will be chosen before Jan. 1. In the interim the organization is under command of Lieutenant Colonel L. G. Kingsland, executive officer.

FLURRY OVER ARMY DRILL AT NEW YORK CITY COLLEGE

Students Incensed When Faculty Rejects Demand for Abolition of Compulsory Training.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Students of the College of the City of New York were up in arms today over the action of the faculty in rejecting their demand for abolition of compulsory military training. The faculty voted, 54 to 8, to continue army drill. The students recently conducted a referendum on military training, in which they voted, 292 to 39, for its abolition.
So incensed were the students over the action of the faculty that the student paper, The Campus, refused to print the official statement announcing the vote. As requested by Sidney Mezes, president of the college.

MAN RUNNING FOR CAR KILLED BY ACCIDENT, JURY DECIDES

William Worland Was Struck by a Truck at Eighteenth and Olive Streets.
A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the case of William Worland, 50 years old, of 4360 De Soto avenue, who was fatally injured last Wednesday when struck by an automobile truck as he was crossing Eighteenth street, at Olive street.
Witnesses testified the driver of the machine, William Pearson of 1226 Wash street, was driving at reasonable speed when he struck Worland, who was running to catch a street car.

WIDOW'S BODY FOUND IN HOME

Died From Natural Causes.
The body of Mrs. Emma Gall, 58 years old, a widow, was found yesterday lying on the floor in the kitchen of her home at 3125 South Seventh street, by her daughter, Bertha. Death was apparently from natural causes.
A galvanized tub containing clothes was on a gas stove, the two burners of which were burning, the daughter reported.

PIKEWAY PLAYER AND COACH WHO PLAYED AGAINST GRANGE, BARRELL. -- ADD

Reese Jones Played Under Assumed Name, Williams Failed to Make Report

Assistant Coach Not Barred for Participation in Game—Jones, Young Giant, a Great Football and Basketball Prospect.

An uncontrollable desire to experience the thrill of competing against the most-talked-of football player of the age has resulted in the loss of a player and a coach at Washington University.

Reese Jones, 19-year-old star of the Washington University freshman football team and one of the finest gridiron prospects of years, a star basketball player as well, has been barred from athletics at the Pikeaway because he played against the Chicago Bears and Red Grange at Sportsman's Park 10 days ago.

Ed Williams, assistant coach of the Washington University freshman football team and one of the finest gridiron prospects of years ago, has been discharged from his official position because he, as a player in the Grange game, had knowledge of the participation of Reese Jones in the contest and failed to notify Head Coach Robert Higgins or Director of Athletics Dr. William Edmunds.

Williams played under an assumed name, and the facts became known today, although it is understood that the drastic action took place several days ago.

The promoters of the professional game, when notified of the barring of Coach Williams and Jones, said today that if Jones played in the game he did so under an assumed name and that he deceived the promoters and Capt. Eddie Kaw. Every effort was made, they say, to keep college players out of the lineup. The St. Louis University football team was hastily recruited for the game. Jones is said to have played in the line under the name of Van Deen.

Jones, a typical football player, stands 6 feet 2 inches and weighs 220 pounds. He was selected on the all-Indiana preparatory school basketball team last fall and was regarded by Coach Don White as one of his best prospects for the freshman team this year.

This is the first instance of the barring of player or a coach for professional play since the Missouri Valley Conference passed its new rule designed to bring about the early death of the professional game.

Chancellor Hadley, at the Washington University dinner last night, said that so long as professional football remained within its own sphere it might exist without occasioning any alarm among colleges. The use of college players under assumed names has been opposed officially by the National Professional Football League.

Nebraska U. Football Team to Play Pikers Here Next Season

Cornhuskers Have Not Met Washington Since 1918, When Pikers Scored Victory—Mahan and Kahle Elected to Captain Pikers and Billkens in 1926.

Nebraska University's great football team will appear here in a Missouri Valley Conference game with the Washington University Pikers next season, it was announced by Dr. Bill Edmunds, Pikeaway athletic director, at the annual Washington U. banquet at the City Club last night.

Nebraska has accepted the Pikeaway game for Oct. 15.

Not since 1918 when the wartime R. O. T. C. was functioning at Washington U. have St. Louis football devotees had the pleasure of watching the Cornhuskers in action. Cancellation of the annual battle with Notre Dame has created a vacancy in the early-season schedule at Nebraska, making possible the date with the Pikers. On Thanksgiving day Nebraska will journey to Seattle to compete against the University of Washington in what probably will be one of the biggest intercollegiate games of the year.

Pikers Score Victory. On the occasion of their last meeting the Pikers defeated Nebraska, with the aid of Joe Evans, Eber Simpson, Jimmy Conzmann and other outstanding stars.

A surprise was sprung at last night's gathering when Bob Mahan, halfback, was elected captain of the football squad for 1926. It had been rumored that Al Hayes would be named. Mahan played a very effective game last season. Charles Levy is the retiring captain.

A note of optimism was sounded by Chancellor Herbert S. Hadley in his address to the gathering of 150 athletes and coaches last night. The Chancellor said that he hoped Washington would be able to play its games of 1926 in a new member.

Ty Cobb's Own Story

By TY COBB

Will Appear in the Post-Dispatch Beginning Monday, December 14

There have been thousands of interviews with Cobb, thousands of columns about his great feats on the diamond, his fist fights, his brilliant baseball career.

Now Ty Cobb tells his own life story.

Cobb tells everything, starting with his boyhood baseball in Dixie, where he attracted professional "scouts" at the age of 12. He tells of fist fights with players and spectators, including lickings for himself; his suspension from baseball, his spiking of "Home Run" Baker, his part in the players' strike.

Cobb has been called the greatest ball player of all time. His story of his 20 years in baseball will be a worthwhile contribution to the history of the national game.

My 30 Years in FOOTBALL

By FIELDING H. YOST

(Copyright, 1925.)

In accordance with my plan to see as much of the country as possible, I accepted an offer from the University of Nebraska in 1898. "Two or three years more of coaching," I told myself, "and then I'll take advantage of the degree I got at the University of West Virginia Law School and settle down and build up my practice."

Thus, I went West with the best wishes of my friends and a note from Charles P. Morgan, manager of the Ohio Wesleyan team, who wrote: "Under the coaching of F. H. Yost the football team of Ohio Wesleyan experienced the most successful season it has ever enjoyed. Mr. Yost has a thorough knowledge of the game and is a player of experience and reputation, having played on the championship Lafayette College team that defeated the University of Pennsylvania."

It was quite a feat in those days for anybody to beat Penn. For years afterward every man who played on that Lafayette team was identified with the remark: "He played on the Lafayette team that beat Penn." Having the love for football that I had and still have, and always will—I just naturally revelled in the identification and distinction.

Place a Precarious One. But now I was beginning to live more in the present than in the past. I realized that the life of a football coach is a precarious one and that the demand for winning teams is an exacting one. Many a capable coach has been decapitated by impatient undergraduates and graduates in their desire for a winning team after a season of failure.

Of course, it is impossible for all teams to win all their games, but some overzealous critics do not quite realize this. They seem to think that all a coach has to do is to roll up his sleeves, strike the pose of a magician and that a winning team will immediately come forth. As a matter of fact, material has a great deal to do with it.

But more important than anything else those overzealous folk forget that football, after all, is just a game and is still the fine game it is in spite of a passing defeat of victory, and that it serves its purpose as a healthy adjunct of an education and college life possibly more in defeat than it does in victory. Personally I have learned more in failure than I have in success. Indeed, I owe much of my success to whatever failure I have had.

Kahle Elected by Billkens. Frank Kahle, who played a sensational game at end for the football team last season, was elected captain of the St. Louis University football team for next season at a banquet at the American Hotel Annex last night. His home is in Calida, O. and he is a student in the school of Commerce and Finance.

No decision has been reached regarding the signing of a new football coach. It was announced by Henry J. McMahon, president of the Athletic Board, Dan Savage, retiring varsity coach, was paid glowing tribute by members of the squad who played under him. Retiring Captain Frank Ramaciotti read a testimonial drawn up by the squad in which Savage was praised as a coach and leader.

Plans for the new Billiken gymnasium to be erected on Pine street will be placed in the hands of the contractors and work will proceed immediately. Rev. T. J. Schulte, president of the Student Conclave announced.

Huggins Trying To Snare Ehmke From Red Sox Lots of Conversation at Baseball Meeting, but Not One Big Trade.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees smiled as the annual sessions ended. The word was passed about that Huggins had succeeded in obtaining Bob Ehmke, Red Sox pitcher, who formerly worked for Detroit. Rumors have Aaron Ward, second baseman, and Walter Hoyt, pitcher, going to the Red Sox in exchange. Hoyt formerly pitched in Boston.

Leo Fohl, manager of the Red Sox, was the busiest man in New York for a time. He obtained Alex Gaston, catcher, from Toledo, turning over Heving, catcher, and Connolly, third baseman, in the deal. Then he sold Bill Vamburg to the Athletics for the draft price of $4000 and gave the money and Doc Prothro, third baseman, to Portland of the Pacific Coast League for infielder McCann, once on the Athletics' roster.

The Cubs obtained Maurice Shannon, Louisville shortstop, and Joe Kelly, Toronto outfielder. The Pittsburgh Pirates released Fresno Thompson, second baseman, to Buffalo. Hub Pruett, once Babe Ruth's nemesis, was sold to Oakland of the Coast League by the Browns. The Cincinnati Reds sold Neal Brady, pitcher, to Buffalo, and released Harry Toppel, first baseman, to Greenville, S. C.

Not one big trade was made during the meetings, although there was plenty of talk.

Bucky Harris, Washington manager, told the assembled magnates that he expected Everett Scott to retire from baseball any time and also that Roger Peckinpaugh success to whatever failure I have had.

WON T. V. Championship. B. UT in '97 and '98 and for many years thereafter I was spared the anguish of experiencing this feeling of failure. Just as my Ohio Wesleyan team of '97 won a championship so did my Nebraska team come through to success. It was at Nebraska that a chain of interesting circumstances began to take on the one or two like I had forged at Ohio Wesleyan. It will be recalled that Ohio Wesleyan in '97 defeated Ohio State and held Michigan to a scoreless tie. Following this Ohio Wesleyan again reversed to defeat as its portion. At Nebraska the team I coached beat Kansas and the next year, when I went to Kansas, we beat Nebraska. The year after that I coached at Stanford, on the Pacific Coast to coach and my team beat California, reversing the defeat of the previous season.

All this advertised me a whole lot and prepared the way which led in 1901 to Michigan and the five full years of consecutive success which, more than any others, perhaps, stick out in my mind and affections.

Travin, who played fullback for me at Nebraska, later went to Chicago and did remarkably well there. The captain of the Nebraska team was a young husky named Melford. The material here, as at Ohio Wesleyan, was scarce but I followed the same plan I had formulated at Ohio Wesleyan.

"Pivoted Block" Helped. The game with Kansas was Nebraska's big objective in those days and in this game I again encountered Pennsylvania's famous guard on the Penn team Lafayette had beaten and the value of George Woodruff, the Yale man, was proven and evolved the play, coached Kansas.

The play was led by Morse, captain and guard of the Kansas team, who turned it back by working on the principle that two men brought behind the line weakened the flanks and narrowed the front. Thus, my defense swept forward to the other side of the line of scrimmage, carried the flanks into Kansas territory and then closed in from both sides on the man with the ball and his interference. The "pivoted block" which I developed was the basis of this defense, although, of course, it was amenable to variation, according to the exigencies of each situation.

Football, at this time, was a game of mass attack. The flying wedge had been abolished, but teams were still allowed as few as five men on the line. As a consequence, almost every team built up a strong offense. For this reason I turned my thoughts to new ideas on the offense and came to the conclusion that the best way to combat a strong line was to run with it. In other words, I invented some wide end plays—the kind that you see everywhere nowadays.

Berlenbach in Title Bout With Delaney Tonight

Light Heavyweight Championship Bout to Open New Madison Square Garden Arena.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Paul Berlenbach of Astoria, N. Y., light heavyweight champion of the world, faces the greatest test he ever has known when he meets Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., tonight in the Madison Square Garden ring—the first championship contest in the new sports arena.

More than 20,000 persons, greater than any throng that has witnessed an indoor bout in history, are expected to witness this engagement, scheduled for 15 rounds to a decision. Delaney knocked out Berlenbach in four rounds at the Old Garden in March, 1924.

Politics makes strange bedfellows and baseball stranger. Johnson came together with Landis on the question of a short baseball season, the only time they have been of the same mind since the commissioner was appointed in 1921. The season of 1926 will close Sept. 26 instead of Oct. 3 because Landis broke a deadlock between the two leagues and voted with the American club owners.

That was the most important of the questions taken up at the gathering that has had all the baseball folk in the country in town for the past week and it was short and comparatively peaceful. The dispute between the leagues over the use of resin to help pitchers curb heavy hitting, proposed by the National League, and the proposal of the majors to force 15 optional players on the minor league clubs, which might have precipitated a battle with the small fry, didn't get to a vote.

Eight Against Eight. At the meeting of the Johnson clubs on Wednesday it was agreed to open the season of 1926 on April 13 and close on Sept. 26, a week earlier than usual. When the matter came up yesterday Phil Ball of St. Louis moved the American League plan and Clark Griffith seconded the motion. The National League men declared a favor of no change from the present arrangement and when the vote was announced it was eight to eight. Thereupon Commissioner Landis, who had suffered through four days of bad weather in his last world's series and had been in favor of an earlier start, cast the deciding ballot in favor of the American League plan.

There is to be a Pivoting Rules Committee which will revise and clarify the baseball rules this winter and it will have to do considerable work. The major of the real bag in the pitcher's box, advocated by the National League and opposed by the American will be referred to this committee. It will also take up several suggestions presented by a committee of the National League members were named: Barney Dreyfus of Pittsburgh, William L. Veech of Chicago, Sam Breadon of St. Louis. The American League representatives will be named later.

Cash Echo of 1919 Series. The club owners voted that the share of the world's series money of 1920 which was withheld from the seven Chicago players involved in the "black box" scandal, be distributed pro rata among the men on the team who were not involved in the game-throwing charges. The suits of several of the "black box" players, including Joe Jackson, Happy Felsch and others have been successfully combatted in the courts and the money is no longer a subject of controversy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Vic Kean, a right handed pitcher who has been with the Chicago Cubs for several seasons, has been obtained by the Cardinals according to an announcement made here today by President Sam Breadon. Infielder Jim Cooney will wear a Cub uniform. It was a straight deal, no other players or cash being involved.

GENE TUNNEY TO RISK TITLE IN FLORIDA RING

By the Associated Press. TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 11.—Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight, has signed for a championship bout at St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 28. It was revealed today.

Tunney's opponent will be named within a few days. Negotiations are understood to be under way for bouts in Tampa and Miami.

Commissioner Breaks Deadlock, Defeating National League and Being on Same Side of an Issue With Ban Johnson For First Time Since He Was Appointed.

By George W. Daley Of the New York World Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Ban Johnson celebrated his "return from Elba" when his American League club owners joined hands with Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, yesterday, and defeated the National League, always hitherto strongly behind Landis, in the only test in the dispute between the major league, which came to a vote at the annual joint meeting at the Roosevelt.

encroaching on the playing field in world's series games and of screening these stands, was not brought before the meeting.

The most important of the routine business taken up was the agreement that major league clubs may keep a player obtained as a free agent or from a minor league club, "under option," for a period of three years instead of two. It was also decided that for a player to be eligible for the world's series his contract must have been promulgated by Aug. 31.

One Discordant Note. Harry Grabner of the Chicago White Sox called for a halt in the day's proceedings before the session while he corrected the statement that the award of an extension in contract and a $10,000 raise to Ban Johnson had been passed on Wednesday by the unanimous vote of the American League.

"Chicago voted against the proposition when it was recommended by the board of directors," he said. "We feel that Johnson's salary is high enough."

"William Harridge, secretary to Johnson, announced that the salary increase and the contract extension, was passed unanimously, but we want to go on record as having voted against the measure."

"Furthermore, we were the only club openly to oppose the measure. You know Chicago hasn't had a member on the board of directors since 1919, when the club took its stand against Johnson on the Carl Mays matter. Previously the club alternated in electing its members to the board."

SCHUTTENBERG SHOOTS 702 BOWLING SCORE

The individual members of the St. Louis Coal Club Bowling League gave a great demonstration of ten pin busting in last night's session at the Rogers alleys, with honors for the night going to Gus Schuttenberg, who turned in a remarkable 702 series which was compiled with counts, 254, 254 and 254. This is one of the record scores for the season in either open or league competition.

B. Mahle and Buck Weaver were next with counts of 640 and 623 respectively. In the team contest the Jostensons Coal Co., Southern Coal and Petco were three-game winners, with their respective victims being the Rutledge-Taylor, Weissenberg, Ziegler and Kolb Coals. The Callahan Coals were one game the best over the inland Valley Coals.

Dempsey-Willis Bout Likely to Go to Rickard

Fitzsimmons' South Band dictate Fails to Advise Cash.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Fitzsimmons' South Band storm clouds are gathering over the proposed bout for the world's light boxing title between Jack Dempsey and Charles Willis, Miami Beach, Fla., scheduled for Dec. 15 at the South Beach Hotel.

Unwillingness of the South syndicate to post the forfeits required in the contract, which expired last summer by Dempsey's withdrawal from the syndicate, is the main reason for the delay.

A new set of financial promoters, perhaps Tex Rickard and a new site for the bout will be discussed in Los Angeles and at a conference of Dempsey, Fitzsimmons and Ray Canale, wauke attorney, legal adviser to the champion, Boyle's Thirty Acres in New Jersey may be the new field.

Rickard, who always maintained that the bout would be a financial failure anywhere but in New York, says it is all news to him.

The champion, in Los Angeles, admitted that the contract with Fitzsimmons has been broken, not greatly concerned. He understands that another offer may be made to him but does not know he says, what it is to be.

The offer is coming from Chicago syndicate eager to bring the bout here, says Roy Royce, press agent and spokesman for Dempsey. Everything is about to be decided except some necessary details covering financing and promotion, he adds.

The president of the Chicago syndicate will go to Los Angeles next week. If Fitzsimmons meets the requirements of the proposed contract no other promoter has a chance, even though, Bentz continues, some one has been doing without authority, with the aid and with the right to go to court. Fitzsimmons has 15 days to meet the conditions.

Dempsey wants to eliminate clause in the South Band contract preventing him from fighting before he meets Willis, Bentz volunteered.

ADVERTISMENT

Now to Get Rid of Muscle-Lameness

Beach Patrolman Advises this Treatment

After exposure to dampness and cold, and after hard exercise, muscles will stiffen up and get lame.

A beach patrolman at Atlantic City writes that he has found this treatment the quickest and most effective way to take out the stiffness and pain.

"Just pat on a little of Sloan's Liniment. Don't rub. It's the liniment—not the rubbing—that helps. You'll get relief right away. I've tried all sorts of other things, but nothing gets results like Sloan's."

Hundreds of letters like this tell of the wonderful relief from muscular pain that Sloan's gives.

Sloan's gets results because it doesn't just deaden pain, it gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. Quickly and surely it carries off the "fatigue-poisons," takes away stiffness and drives away the aches and pains.

Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—85 cents.

Fitzsimmons' South Bend Syndicate Fails to Advance Cash.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Financial storm clouds are gathering over the proposed bout for the heavy-weight boxing title between Champion Jack Dempsey and challenger Harry Wills, Giant Negro, set for South Bend some time next year. Unwillingness of the South Bend syndicate to post the substantial forfeits required in the contract, which was signed by Fitzsimmons, Michigan City, Ind., promoter, may result in the withdrawal of the syndicate.

A new set of financiers, a new promoter, perhaps Tex Rickard, and a new site for the bout will be discussed in Los Angeles next week at a conference of Dempsey, Fitzsimmons and Ray Cannon, Milwaukee attorney, legal adviser to the champion. Boyle's Thirty Acres in New Jersey may be the battlefield.

Rickard, who always maintained that the bout would be a financial failure anywhere but in New York, says it is all news to him. He dropped out of the case when Dempsey split with Jack Kearns, his former manager, with whom Rickard had an agreement that Dempsey would fight for no other promoter.

Dempsey Not Disturbed.
The champion, in Los Angeles, admitting that the contract with Fitzsimmons has been broken, is not greatly concerned. He understands that another offer may be made to him but does not know, he says, what it is to be.

The offer is coming from a Chicago syndicate eager to bring the bout here, says Roy Benton, press agent and spokesman for Dempsey. Everything is about settled except some necessary details covering financing and promotion.

The president of the Chicago syndicate will go to Los Angeles next week. If Fitzsimmons meets the requirements of the proposal, some one has been dickering without authority, with Rickard and for the fight to go to Detroit. Fitzsimmons has 10 days to meet the conditions.

Dempsey wants to eliminate the clause in the South Bend contract preventing him from fighting before he meets Wills, Benton also volunteered.

St. Louis Tenpin Stars Won $899 In Middle West

Scheefers Took Down $91 in Team Event—Rebenscheid Starred.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 11.—Although none of the tournament events were very high, save a few in the team events, St. Louis bowlers finished fourth in the prize money of the Mid-West tourney which closed last Monday.

Chicago was first, Omaha, second, Kansas City, third. St. Louis won $899.33, according to figures just released by Frank Jarbo, secretary of the Mid-West association.

Scheefers' Recreation team drew down the largest amount in the five-man event for St. Louis—$91. The St. Louis prize list:

Dolly Olive's Bed is unusual, too. It's a real Bed, with real springs and mattress—an exact duplicate, in miniature, of the full-size famous Smith & Davis Beds. 20 inches long, 15 inches high at the head and 12 inches at the foot; enameled in white, blue or pink; it is at once a dainty and durable Bed, worthy in every way of the exceptional Dolly that will grace it.

To the subscriber: If you are already a Post-Dispatch reader—regularly buying this newspaper on the street or having delivery made at home, DO NOT sign this space arranged above for NEW subscriptions. To do so will only result in disappointment to the child who presents this order blank.

All subscriptions received under this offer will be investigated as to validity of the order and the subscriber's responsibility.

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to accept or reject any subscription order at its option.

None will be accepted from persons identified with the delivery or sale of the Post-Dispatch nor for delivery in the territory lying between Cass Avenue and Chouteau Avenue, and between the Mississippi River and Grand Avenue, in St. Louis, nor within the East St. Louis district south of Missouri Avenue and west of Twentieth Street.

All St. Louis awards of Dolls and Doll Beds will be delivered at the office of the Post-Dispatch, Twelfth and Olive Streets.

Delivery of out-of-town awards will be made through local newsdealers or sent by mail, prepaid, to R. F. D. addresses.

ASSIGNMENTS OF MISSOURIANS

Congressmen Dyer and Newton Re-assign Important Committee Posts.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The names of Missouri members of Congress assigned to the major House committees for the present Congress were announced today by Charles L. Faust of St. Joseph, the Missouri member of the Republican Committee on Commerce.

Faust, who represents the Fourth Missouri District, will give up the chairmanship of the Census Committee to take a place on the Ways and Means Committee. Representative Cleveland A. Newton of the Tenth District will retain his place on the Rivers and Harbors Committee, and Representative L. C. Dyer of the Twelfth District will continue on the Judiciary Committee, of which he is now the ranking Republican member. Representative Edgar Ellis of Kansas City, who defeated Henry Ford in the last election, was assigned to the Foreign Affairs Committee. Representative Ralph E. Bailey of Skidmore, the new member from the Fourteenth District, was assigned to the Committee on Post-offices and Post Roads.

THE TRIUMPHANT MARCH OF "MELLIE" DUNHAM

—Underwood & Underwood.

Showing the departure of the champion fiddler and snowshoe maker of Maine from his home town of Norway. He is shown shaking hands with Gov. Brewster, one of those who came to say good-by. As a king in the middle ages would send for some minstrel to divert him, Henry Ford had sent for "Mellie." The journey to Detroit was made in a private Pullman car furnished by the automobile manufacturer. Upon his arrival in Detroit he was taken to a country club where, Wednesday morning, "Mellie" had the best breakfast he ever ate, according to his own statement. Mr. Ford is collecting old-time dance tunes and "Mellie" is one of a score or more fiddlers who are contributing to the anthology.

The Darling of Destiny

MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER XLV.

A DISTURBING REMINDER.
It was a disheveled trio that Alvin Teal deposited at the Blanchard's front door a few hours later.

Mrs. Blanchard, smartly costumed for an afternoon bridge and beaming satisfaction because it was Mrs. Darlington's party and that lady had not only sent her card but had personally telephoned her, uttered a little shriek of dismay when she perceived her daughter, grimy and smoke-stained, with hat awry and gown torn and soiled. The sight of Sue in the same state almost threw her into hysterics.

However, as soon as her maternal solicitude was appeased, she got hastily into the car and was borne to the party. It would take more than a fire and the narrow escape of her child to keep her from one of the Darlington social functions.

The Colonel was genuinely concerned and wrung Macdonald's hand in gratitude for his heroism. He brought out a bottle of his best pre-war Scotch and piled Macdonald with it. When the latter remarked the exquisite view from the terrace and said it made his fingers itch for canvas and brushes, the Colonel immediately invited him to remain as his guest for a few days and paint to his heart's content.

Macdonald's eyes sought Joan's. There was a wistful question in them. She nodded.

"Please stay," she said earnestly. "It will be a pleasure for us all to have you."

The last Sue heard when she was starting upstairs to change, the Colonel was arranging to have Roger drive Macdonald into town to get his bags, canvas and paint.

"Just a moment, please," Sue turned to find Alvin Teal beside her.

"I couldn't say anything to you coming down in the car with the others there," he told her, "but what do you say if I reconsider our decision of last night and let this fictitious engagement continue for a while. I apologize for being nasty last night. My temper was frayed after that beauty afternoon with your magnificent cousin. Shall we be friends?" He held out his hand ingratiatingly.

Sue accepted it, but she shook her head with a slight smile.

"I'm afraid we can never be real friends."

"Do you know, I'm beginning to think that, too."

Something in his gaze made her flush for an unaccountable reason. There was a significance to his simple admission which she could not analyze.

After he had gone, she dragged herself wearily up the stairs and into the grateful warmth and comfort of her room which before, she had left so lightly the night before, now dreaming of the adventures that were in store for her before she would see again.

She had never felt anything so delightful as the warm, scented bath into which she lowered her tired body and felt the blood come tingling to her fingertips under the soft caress of the water. She tubbed her hair, too, and when half an hour later she rolled sleepily to bed, she was once again glowing and beautiful, with shining curls and polished finger-tips. Scarcely conscious with weariness, she sank into the embrace of the soft pillows and was asleep instantly.

It was fully dark when she woke and realized that some one was tapping on the door. It proved to be a servant to summon her to the telephone.

"The same lady that has been calling you all afternoon, Miss Sue. I told her you were not to be disturbed, but she says it's most important."

Reluctantly, Sue came back to full consciousness, and slipping into a negligee, she made her way to the telephone.

"You were to come to see me today," she said sharply without preamble. "What's the idea? Are you trying to make a fool of me?"

"I'm sorry," Sue's voice was crisp and cool. "I was resting after a very strenuous experience in a fire. My business with you cannot really be very important, since you waited so long before communicating with me."

"Are you trying to stall?" There was anxiety beneath the insolence in the actress's voice. "You still have that letter?"

"Surely, you still have Roger's?" inquired Sue sweetly.

"Yes, and I intend to keep them," snapped Miss de Verne, "but, will you come to see me tomorrow?"

Sue promised, but sighed resignedly. As she turned away from the phone, she was still tired and yearned for sleep, but she knew that before she visited Corinne de Verne and bargained for Roger's letter, she must go to the room in the East Side tenement and get the mysterious packet as the unknown woman had directed before her death.

It meant that she must go that night.

A FRIGHTENING MISSION.

CHAPTER XLVI.

AFTER dinner Sue managed to slip away without arousing the curiosity of the family. Every one believed that she was tired and was going to bed.

Never in her life had she so desired sleep, but she knew that must no longer delay her last effort to obtain the packet which was supposed to be under the mattress in the little hall room of the tenement. Even if she had been tempted to postpone her mission, the sight of Roger's haggard face across the dinner table would have spurred her on.

He met her in the hall as she was going upstairs. She asked a mute question with her eyes and he shook his head despairingly.

"No hope, I'm afraid; I'm getting used to the idea, now, I guess I can stand all right, but it will kill the family."

"Of course it is silly to say: don't worry," Sue told him, "but I have an idea that everything is going to be all right."

Sue managed to get the 9 o'clock train to town and she had the good fortune to meet the Blanchard car at the front gates where she had expected to hail a bus.

The chauffeur had driven Mrs. Blanchard to the club and neither his prolonged absence nor Sue's departure was noted by the rest of the family.

Before the train had reached Penn Station, she began to be a little frightened as she recalled the sinister aspect of the tenement house flat she was going to visit. She had never been there alone.

The thought of Tony filled her with scorn. She wondered what had happened to him after his flight from the fire and if he would ever have the courage to face any of them after his display of cowardice.

Her question was answered rather sooner than she expected. When she alighted from the train and hurried through the gates and into the echoing cavern of the taxi-trance, a newboy thrust an evening paper at her and Tony's face smiled back at her from its front page.

In large type she read: "PROMINENT LONG ISLAND

Standing in Line.

ARE you in line, or are you standing at one side? When the emergency comes in your business, or the unexpected chance for promotion, where will you be, and will your position be intentional or accidental?

Don't go through your business career blind to opportunities. In every man's life plenty of chances would come for advancement if he only kept his eyes open. When the opportunity comes, it is too late to wake up. You might as well stay asleep for twenty years, like Rip Van Winkle, as to be one minute late when the big chance comes.

Big chances are not confined to fairy tales and business romances. They occur just as regularly as the ocean's tides, only not quite so often. As it would be foolish to attempt to launch a boat in low tide, so it is ridiculous to attempt to make your big strike in business unless the time is ripe.

One must study the tides in order to be a good sailor. Likewise one must study the tides of business, both as they affect the entire industry and one's individual concern, in order to be ready to make the most of opportunities.

But what good is study if you do not put what you learn into practice? Are you grooming yourself to be next in line for promotion? If the general manager should suddenly leave, would you be ready to step into his place? And even though you were ready, who would discover it?

One's method of preparation should not be offensive or obvious, of course. More than one clever employee has been released from an organization because it was apparent he was trying to worm his way into the desk of some one above. Trying to get some one's place to which you are not rightfully entitled usually results in nothing but discovery and disgrace.

Entirely honorable, however, is the practice of studying all phases of your business so thoroughly that you would be ready to fill in the desk of anyone suddenly absent or called away.

Honest dissatisfaction—the sort that impels you to work harder and strive higher—will keep you in line for promotion.

What are your feelings when you see a middle-aged man doing messenger boy service?

His mistake was made years ago. Content with his unambitious lot, he never fitted himself for the bigger job just ahead. Watch the line forming, and let no one get your place. Once out of step, it is not easy to get back!

ALL the fairies, they say, this one and that one, those who bring beauty, success, contentment, genius—beautiful, good fairies, and that one old bad fairy who brings along Pandora's box full of the petty troubles that get loose and cloud the sunshine of a girl, all are present beside the cradle of a new baby-girl. And they smile on her, and shower gifts on her, and the air is full of the gold-dust of their good will, while they scowl at the naughty old fairy and promise her that they will stay right with the little potential heart-breaker and try to put a monkey-wrench in all her (the bad fairy's) bad works.

We know of one person who is there, even if there are no fairies, and that part of the tale is all a fabrication. And that's Love.

Through the shiny panes of the twilight window of the cottage that houses a happy soon after she has made her entrance into the world, while still her hair is silken and down, her eyes, two round pools of love, interests all wrapped up in the infant moment there peers—for those who are enough to spy him—the round, pink, open face of Daniel Cupid, his round eyes and cradle.

He says, "By my bow-and-arrow I mean eye on her."

And every time you see her after that, are smart, you will find somewhere in her the same fat figure—watching, waiting, ready to pounce on the girl who has just been wedded. He never leaves until he has seen her in the picture any more.

SO NOW they're divorced, the poor working girl and her rich husband—well, they've lived together for 20 years—and most of the people who went to the wedding thought they wouldn't live together for 20 months.

She was a beauty—a dark beauty, with great flashing brown eyes, and a mop of heavy, dark hair, and a figure and a way with her.

She was a good talker, too, and how she did love to talk.

All about the wrongs of the working classes and the cruelty of the rich and, one day the rich man heard her talking, and he caught the flash of her dark eyes and something in the thrill of her voice held him and before any one knew what was happening the working girl and her millionaire admirer were married.

And they were interviewed and photographed and written up. And the millionaire's friends said what a fool he is.

And the working girl's friends said: "Now, she's a millionaire herself. I wonder if she'll go on talking."

And it was all very romantic and lovely.

Don't forget the Dainties. How much the little entrees do to create a dainty dinner. A dish of conserve, one of relish or pickle, or an unusual home-made jam gives a delicious finish to the heavy roast dinner.

Prevents Stretching. Try to finish the neck of a frock as soon as possible after cutting out. If left until later it will surely stretch and never fit quite smoothly. In these days of plain necks, a dress is ruined if it does not fit well at this point.

Easier Burned. The garbage kettle is hard to keep clean in winter on account of the freezing of the waste. Many of us find it is simpler to put our garbage in the furnace in freezing weather. Andrew Carnegie—The "Star-Spangled" Scotchman EVER, perhaps, has a career such a wide range of the fantastic as that of Andrew Carnegie. Starting as a bobbin-boy, he made a fortune of $40,000,000, and 40 men whom Carnegie had raised from the ranks to partnership, had a slice of the melon.

Then Carnegie's last great coup was in 1901 when his companies formed the nucleus of the United States Steel Corporation, called the "Billion-dollar Steel Trust." J. P. Morgan paid him $3,000,000 for his interest alone in the Carnegie Steel Co., and he signalled his retirement by gifts aggregating $5,000,000 to his old employees.

Carnegie was a short, stocky, hickory-knot of a man, his head as round and hard as a golf ball. But it was full of brains. He was the fastest and shrewdest money maker the world has ever known. Carnegie died in 1919.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

Paddy Takes Command

Who works the way the Beavers work Will never, never be a shirk.

—Old Mother Nature.

THE two young Beavers, following their mother and father up the Laughing Brook, were inclined to grumble a bit at first. It seemed to them that they hardly had closed their eyes when Paddy waked them and ordered them to follow him at once. They didn't know what it was all about. They knew that he was greatly upset about something, and they guessed that it probably had something to do with the new dam, but they couldn't believe that it could be anything important enough to get them out in the night after a hard day's work. So they grumbled a little between themselves, but took care not to be overheard by their mother or father.

Straight up the Laughing Brook faster than they ever had traveled before Paddy led the way. Never had they known him to hurry like this before. At last they began to suspect that something serious must have happened after all. And when at last they were in the swamp they knew. They had left a big pond. They found little more than a puddle. It was so surprising that they rubbed their eyes.

But Paddy didn't stop to rub his eyes. He swam straight to a great hole in the middle of the dam. One glance was enough for him. "Buster Bear!" he snapped. "I guessed as much."

He climbed out on the dam and carefully looked over the hole and the condition of the dam on both sides and above and below. Then he turned to the two young Beavers. "You youngsters get busy at once cutting and bringing sticks as fast as you can," he commanded. "You," he continued to Mrs. Paddy, "dig mud and suds if you can find them. I'll attend to the placing of the material. Now, everybody work! It ought not to take a great while to stop this water from running off. We must save what little is left so as to make it reasonably safe for us to work. I suspect that good-for-nothing Yowler the Bob Cat will be sneaking about here soon if he isn't hiding close at hand already. Keep a sharp watch, youngsters, and keep close to deep water while you are cutting."

"You youngsters get busy at once cutting and bringing sticks"

Paddy's guess that Yowler the Bob Cat might be somewhere near was a good one. Yowler was right where he could see all that went on. There was no place for him to hide within jumping distance of those busy workers, but he hoped that as the work went on without disturbance one of them might become careless and get far enough away from the water for him to have at least a chance for a Beaver dinner.

But Paddy seemed to have eyes everywhere at once. The instant one of the others began to stray the least bit away from the water Paddy's flat tail would thump a reminder and warning. And how those Beavers did work! They didn't waste a minute. Before it seemed possible the amount of water flowing out through that hole in the middle of the dam began to grow less. It grew less and less faster than it takes to tell it. You see, Paddy was working with might and main, and he seemed to know just where to put each stick and each brushy top and the suds and mud Mrs. Paddy brought. Even as Yowler looked at it the puddle above the dam began to grow bigger. It grew slowly at first, but soon it grew rapidly. That hole was being filled up.

When the young Beavers saw this, one of them suggested that they go over to the other hole Buster Bear had torn in the dam. But Paddy wouldn't allow this. You see there was no water running through this hole, for the pond was now too small for there to be any water behind the dam there. To have fixed that hole the Beavers would have had to work out of water altogether. It was this very thing that Yowler had been hoping and hoping they would do. But Paddy put his foot down against this. Perhaps it would be more correct to say he put his tail down. Anyway, he slapped the ground with it whenever one of those young Beavers started toward that other hole, and that was all there was to that. It wasn't until the pond had grown big enough for the water to reach and begin to run through that other hole that Paddy gave it any attention. Then he swam over to it and began work on that.

So, about the time that jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky the work was finished, and Mrs. Paddy led two tired young Beavers back down the Laughing Brook to their home. Paddy said he would remain a while. As for Yowler the Bob Cat, he slipped away unseen, muttering to himself in disappointment.

Winter Neckwear.

When mannish topcoats are worn this winter, the proper type of neckwear from present indications, will consist of heavy silk scarves very similar to those worn by men. These may be of plaid as well as any highland chieftain ever dared to be, with combinations such as brown, dull yellow and blue green. For women, it is only necessary to consult one's own taste when buying scarves for male members of the family.

I AM A FOOD DEMONSTRATOR—a humble calling, you may think. But I don't think so. Because my work helps people, by the thousands, to better health and greater happiness.

I "demonstrate" Postum. I spend some time at Expositions and Food Fairs, and the rest of the year here at Battle Creek. People visit me, from every State in the Union. I personally prepare Postum for each one, and serve it. After a sip or two they usually say, "Mrs. Blanchard, this is the finest drink I ever tasted."

They seem surprised because Postum is so good. They possibly have been thinking of it as "something for sick folks"—like a patent medicine. How funny! Of course Postum is good for the sick, but it's even better to help people keep well. Why shouldn't it have a wonderful flavor? It is made of wonderful materials—whole wheat and bran, skillfully blended and roasted.

How much better to enjoy Postum at mealtime, than a drink containing caffeine—a drug. A drug that causes so much nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, and indigestion. A drug that every school child is taught to avoid!

You try Postum, too! Try it for thirty days—long enough to show results. Note how much better you look, how much better you feel, at the end of the test. Then decide!

I will start you on the test with one week's free supply, and my personal directions for preparing it. Or if you want to begin today, get Postum at your grocer's. It costs much less than most other hot drinks—only one-half cent a cup!

You can be free of the effects of caffeine—easily! Make the thirty-day test right away!

DISMEMBERMENT OF BODIES ALLEGED

salesmanager for New Ground Says Boxes Are Used in Place of Decayed Coffins, but Denies Complaints.

Suit to restrain St. Paul's Evangelical Church from removing bodies from its old cemetery at Kingshighway and Gravois road will be filed Monday in the Circuit Court on behalf of lot owners by J. Callahan, attorney associated with Verne Lacy in offices in the Trade Building. The suit, Callahan said today, would be based on charges that the removal of bodies is improperly conducted by the church and that the bodies themselves have been desecrated and even dismembered in order to ram them into small boxes the church is using for reinterment.

From 15 to 20 lot owners have complained to his firm, Callahan said, and action will be brought in the names of some of them. But he refused to give their names.

"In many cases," he said, "my clients tell me that the coffins and rough boxes have decayed from their long interment. Small boxes have been furnished in their place and if the body does not fit, the effects have told me, it is made up, even by dismemberment."

Denial of Charges.
Callahan's assertions were denied by E. F. Fohl, sales manager for the cemetery, in a statement to the Post-Dispatch today.

"The removals," he said, "are made almost always in the presence of relatives of the dead. Representatives of the city Health Department are present, much of the work coming in whenever they come, to supervise the task which the church has undertaken. It is possible under such circumstances for such things to occur."

It is true that often the coffins and rough boxes have crumbled away. Only a few bones remain. These are gathered up and put into smaller boxes which the cemetery has provided. But larger boxes are used if needed. The call ones were chosen simply to the needless expense to the relatives. We, on our part, are glad to furnish them whatever size box they demand.

These cemeteries at Kingshighway and Gravois road are about 50 years old. When they were sold for $1 for a 6-grave lot—there was no thought of perpetuity. About 10,000 people had been buried in them. The church had no funds with which to care for their graves. People in the neighborhood dumped old cans and rubbish in the cemetery.

New Lots for Old Ones.
"Last night at a church meeting I was decided to get a new cemetery and remove the bodies from the old ones to where perpetual care could be provided for them. The site selected was on Rock Hill road, near Laclede Station road, on an old White Haven farm, where the church's cabin first stood."

"We offered the old lot holders an exchange—a lot in the new cemetery providing the same number of graves they had in the old and with perpetual care provided. The only expense to them was for removal of the bodies. That this might be done properly the church itself undertook the work. I let no contract."

"Lot owners have accepted our proposition for the removal of about 4000 of the bodies, and we have already made between 400 and 500 removals. There were, of course, some folks who were suspicious. They thought this was a money-making scheme. Why, for every lot we exchange the church has to set aside $10 for perpetual care, and the new six-grave lots which sell for $200 are given in exchange for those which only cost $1."

"We have had no complaints about our method of handling the bodies, but if we do have we will make every effort to satisfy any relative no matter how exacting."

Immigration Law Repeal Urged.
DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 10.—Repeal of the immigration law excluding Japanese from the United States was urged at the closing meeting of the federal council of churches' Executive Committee yesterday. A plea for the denaturalization of the chaplaincy also was made.
